Editorial

It is our great satisfaction to present 11th number of the Jahr – European Journal of Bioethics, which is the first issue of our journal completely edited through the Open Journal System. I would like to thank all the members of the Editorial and Advisory Board, as well as reviewers and authors for their contribution and patience in creation of this new issue.

In the current issue of Jahr you can read about the medizinische Anthropologie of the Heidelberg School and its implications for bioethics, challenges of contemporary bioethics, public opinion and understanding of human-animal hybrid and chimera research, ethical issues involved in umbilical cord blood collection, storage and use, team work in physiotherapy, and influence of social environment on adolescents with neurodevelopmental disability. This number brings one original research article, one short communication, two review articles, two professional articles, three book reviews, and two journal issue reviews.

Sincerely Yours,

Stjepka Popović
