

Whether you are a researcher, student, or other individual interested in paleodontology and bioarchaeology, the IAPO welcomes you as a member.

The IAPO provides a wealth of ways for you to further your career in paleodentological and bioarchaeological research.

IAPO members receive the Bulletin of the International Association for Paleodontology via e-mail.

Members are eligible to join IAPO Projects & Networks, where they can network with investigators in similar areas of paleodontology and bioarchaeology to exchange information and collaborate on specific areas of research.

IMPORTANT

Members receive discounts on meetings organized by the International Association for Paleodontology like the 16th International Symposium on Dental Morphology and 1st Congress of the International Association for Paleodontology – Zagreb, Croatia at the end of August 2014.
