Summary

Coercive Mass Emigration of Serbs from Podravina and Kalnik Foothills in the Summer and Early Autumn of 1941

Key words: Second World war, Serbs, NDH (Independent State of Croatia), migrations, emigration camps, Podravina, Križevci, 1941.

The author writes of the Serbs who were displaced from districts of Ludbreg, Koprivnica, Đurđevac and Križevci in 1941. Upon archival, published sources, literature and by word of mouth the author outlines events connected with the removal of the Serbs to migration camps, their exodus to Serbia and releasing of those from the village Vojakovački Osijek. Some examples of release applications are also shown in the paper as well as a list of those released and information on Slovenian and Croatian settlers who took over the Serbs' property.
