MUZEJ DRNIŠKE KRAJINE

Vrsta muzeja: zavičajni
Osnovan: 1970.
Kategorija muzejske građe: B
Broj muzejskih predmeta: 408

Muzej Drniške krajine osnovan je u rodnoj kući dr. Božidara Adžije (1890.-1941.) predratnoga hrvatskog političara i publicista. Zgradu i početni muzejski fundus, s umjetninama, namještajem, obiteljskim arhivom i bibliotekom, darovao je gradu kolezionar Nikola Adžija.

Zgrada i stalni postav uredeni su 1983. godine, a izložba je organizirana prema zbirkama: djela Ivana Meštrovića, arheološka i etnografska zbirka, djela drniških likovnih umjetnika i memorijalna soba B. Adžije. Fundus ima 408 predmeta, a 184 su u stalnom postavu.

Izloženo je 25 skulptura i 7 slika Ivana Meštrovića (1883.-1962.), jednog od najznačajnijih hrvatskih kipara 19. i 20. stoljeća, nastalih od 1911. do 1959. godine.

Arheološka i etnografska zbirka su skromne i fragmentarno prezentiraju bogatu kulturnu baštinu drniškoga kraja.

* Prema Tanjugovoj informaciji i članku Vesne Kusin u Vjesniku od 24. siječnja 1992., jugoslavenska armija je Meštrovićeve skulpture i skice prenijela u Knin listopadu 1991. godine.

** Prema informaciji direktora Centra za kulturu Drniš, Ante Vukušića, od prosinca 1993. godine, objavljenoj u članku Đ. Ivanševići, Ukradeni Meštrovićeva djela na (ras)prodaji u Austriji i Njemačkoj !?, Nedjeljna Dalmacija, 15. prosinca 1993., pod rukovodstvom pukovnika Hasotića, Meštrovićeva zbirka i fundus Muzeja Drniške krajine otpremljeni su iz Drniša u Knin i smješteni u zapovjedništvo "kninskoga korpusa". Potom je slijedila informacija da je dio Meštrovićevih radova prenesen u Narodni muzej Beograd.

*** Dokumentacija o ukrađenom fondu pri "Fondaciji Ivana Meštrovića" u Zagrebu i MDC-u.

**** Potkraj 1993. godine otpočela je suradnja MDC-a s londonskim Art Loss Registerom, na pilot projektu potrage za nestalim djelima iz drniškoga muzeja - Meštrovićevi radovi. Dokumentaciju pripremila "Fondacija Meštrović", Zagreb, obrada i dopuna MDC i Zavod za zaštitu spomenika kulture Ministarstva kulture i prosvjete. Potraga se obavlja putem računalne mreže preko aukcijskih kuća u uskoj suradnji s INTERPOL-om.

***** Muzej Drniške krajine u progonstvu djeluje pri Muzeju grada Šibenika od ožujka 1994. godine.

***** Dopisnik "Independenta" Robert Fisk u Kninu je razgovarao tijekom svibnja 1994. godine s Milojkom Budimirom, direktorom Zavoda za kulturne spomenike "krajine" u Kninu, o sudbini umjetnina iz drniškoga muzeja.

U dvije podrumske prostorije kninske tvrđave g. Fisku je pokazan dio fundusa toga Muzeja - Meštrovićevi kiparski autoportreti, poprsja, te arhivski materijal drniškog muzeja, velika uljana slika "Kolo" I. Meštrovića, poprsje Meštrovićeva brata Petra, skulptura "Ludi Mile", poprsje Meštrovićeve sestre i dr. Po riječima B. Milojka, šest Meštrovićevih slika je nestalo tijekom rata, a moguće je da su slike završile i u Beogradu ili na ilegalnom tržištu.

Šira informacija Jasna Zanić-Nardini, Vjesnik, Zagreb, 20. lipnja 1994., str. 8.

***** Prema izvješću Promatračke misije EU-a iz lipnja 1994., zgrada muzeja je jako oštećena tijekom ratnih operacija u Drnišu te je i evakuacija muzejske građe u Knin bila nužna.

***** Prema izvješću dr. Colina Kaisera, stručnog savjetnika Vijeća Europe, s njegove misije u Hrvatskoj tijekom lipnja 1994. godine, građa iz muzeja (etnografska zbirka i knjižnica te dio zbirke Meštrović) jest u Muzeju Knina a dio u Meštrovićevom mauzoleju u Otavicama.

* Pregovorima s članovima promatračke misije EU-a i predstavnika Iloka bez prisutnosti JNA, tijekom listopada 1991. godine, bilo je dogovoreno, prema usmenoj informaciji kustosa Muzeja Mate Batorovića, danas dјelatnika u MDC-u, da se inventarne knjige i 10 metalnih sanduka s najvređnjom građom, evakuira u vozilu EU-a. Dogovoren je da se komisjski, uza zapisnik, zapečate prostorije Muzeja. Ništa što je dogovoren nije realizirano jer su predstavnici EU napustili Ilok ranije nego što se očekivalo te je Muzej s kompletnom građom zaključan, inventarne knjige dislocirane a stručni kadar osim jednoga kustosa iseljen iz Iloka 17. listopada 1991.

** Prema informacijama tijekom 1992.-1994. godine iz novina Iločka reč, srpskoga glasila, Muzej je otvoren za javnost, priređuje izložbe i ništa iz njega nije odneseno. U istom glasilu je tiskana informacija da su sve privatne zbirke u Iloku pokradene.

*** Predstavnik Vijeća Europe, dr. Colin Kaiser, boravio je tijekom ožujka 1994. godine s predstvincima ECMM-a i u Iloku te prenio informaciju da je Muzej otvoren za javnost, postav se nije mijenjao a Muzej vodi kustosica slovačke nacionalnosti.

Demontiran je dio postava etno-zbirke i novije povijesti s obzirom na to da istočna strana Dvorca propušta vodu iz vodospremnika smještenog na krovuštu.

Museum profile: local history museum

Founded: 1970

Category of museum collections: B

Number of museum objects: 408

The Drniška Krajina Museum is housed in the parental home of Dr. Božidar Adžija (1890-1941), a Croatian politician and publicist. The building and the initial collections of works of art, furniture, family archives and library were donated to the museum by collector Mr. Nikola Adžija, Božidar's brother.

The building was restored and the permanent display was installed in 1983. The display was arranged by collections: works by Ivan Meštrović, archaeological and ethnographic collections, works by the artists from Drniš and Božidar Adžija memorial room. The museum holds 359 items, and 184 of them are on permanent display.

The permanent display includes 25 sculptures and 7 paintings by Ivan Meštrović (1883-1962), one of the most significant Croatian sculptors of the 19 and 20 centuries, created in the period from 1911 until 1959. The archaeological and ethnographic collections are rather modest and present only fragmentarily the rich cultural heritage of the Drniš region.

* According to Tanjug press agency report and to Vesna Kusin's article published by Vjesnik daily paper on 24 January 1992, sculptures and sketches by Meštrović were removed to Knin by Yugoslav army in September 1991.

** According to the statement made by director of Drniš Cultural Centre Mr. Ante Vukušić in December 1992, published in D. Ivanišević's article "Stolen Works of Art by Meštrović on Sale in Austria and Germany!?" (Nedjeljna Dalmacija, 15 December 1993), Meštrović collection and other possessions of Drniška Krajina Museum were moved from Drniš to Knin and deposited in the "Knin Corps" Headquarters under the supervision of colonel Hasotić. Some of the works by Meštrović were later reportedly removed to National Museum in Belgrade.

*** Documentation on the stolen material at Ivan Meštrović Foundation in Zagreb and at MDC.

**** At the end of 1993 MDC and the Art Loss Register, London, joined in a pilot project of the search for the works of art by Meštrović which disappeared from Drniška Krajina Museum.

Documentation was provided by Ivan Meštrović Foundation of Zagreb, and processed and completed by MDC and the Institute for the Protection of Cultural Monuments of the Ministry of Culture and Education. Search is conducted through auctioneers using computer network and in close collaboration with INTERPOL.

***** Mr. Robert Fisk, correspondent of The Independent interviewed Milojko Budimir, director of the Institute for Cultural Monuments of Krajina in Knin about the destiny of the works of art of Museum of Drniška Krajina in May 1994.

Mr. Fisk was shown the part of the museum collection stored in the two rooms in the cellar of Knin fortress: sculpture self - portraits and busts by Meštrović, the archives of the Drniš Museum, painting "Kolo," the bust of Meštrović's brother Petar, the bust of Meštrović's sister, the sculpture "Ludi Mile", all by Meštrović, etc. According to B. Milojko six paintings by Meštrović disappeared during the war, and there is a possibility that they were either taken to Belgrade or put to illegal market.

More information: Jasna Zanić - Nardini, Vjesnik, Zagreb, 20 June 1994, pg. 8.

***** According to ECMM report , June 1994, the museum was badly damaged by shelling by both sides, which explains the necessity of the evacuation in Knin.

***** According to the Dr. C. Kaiser's report ( June 1994) " other casts contained in the inventory of Drniš museum were said to be in the Meštrović mausoleum at Otavice, structurally intact but in heavily mined area (ECMM source)."

***** Museum of Drniška Krajina in Exile has been active since March 1994 at Šibenik Municipal Museum.

Category of museum collections: B

Number of museum objects: 16.605

The museum records the rich history of Ilok and Srijem in its archaeological, cultural history, ethnographic and fine arts collections. It holds 17 000 items, and 2 229 are on the permanent display. The museum also holds a distinguished collection on numismatics, works of art of the Ilok Art Colony, etc. There are rich archives on the history of Ilok and a significant library. In the Roman times Ilok was a fortress on the Danube Limes (Cuccium). In the Middle Ages it developed from the feudal seat of the dukes of Ilok into the medieval municipality, the center of crafts and commerce (Wylak, Ujlak). After the Turkish withdrawal the duchy of Ilok (as ductus Sirmii) became, in 1697, the demesne of the Roman Odescalchi. The Museum is housed in the former citadel, later reconstructed into the Baroque chateau of the Odescalchi family.

The museum holds prehistoric and Roman artifacts, a collection on the medieval citadel and the period of Turkish conquest, a recent history collection, an ethnographic collection, as well as collections on crafts, commerce and agriculture recording material culture of the inhabitants of Srijem. The art gallery contains valuable works of art, dating since Renaissance.

* According to the report made by the curator of the museum Mr. Mato Batorović, now a member of MDC staff, an arrangement was made with the members of the European Community Monitoring Mission to evacuate the inventory books and ten metal cases with the most valuable material from Ilok in the Mission's vehicle. It was also agreed to appoint a commission to seal the museum building. The arrangements were not carried out at all, since the representatives of the European Community left Ilok earlier than expected. The museum was locked together with all its possessions and only the inventory books were dislocated. The staff of the museum, save one of the curators, was banished from Ilok on 17 October 1991.

** According to the reports published during the period from 1992 to 1994 by Serbian newspaper Iločka reč, the Museum has been opened for the public, staging exhibitions, and nothing has been taken away. The same newspaper also reported that all private collections in Ilok were robbed.

*** A representative of European Council Dr. Colin Kaiser visited Ilok in March 1994 with the representatives of ECMM and reported that the Museum was opened to the public, that permanent display remained unchanged and that the institution was managed by a Slovakian curator. The ethnographic and recent history part of permanent display was partially dismantled because of the leakage in the water tank mounted on the west wing roof.

Jasenovac memorial maintains the original grounds of concentration camp, a monument to the victims of Jasenovac, by architect Bogdan Bogdanović, and a permanent display housed in a separate museum building.

The site of the concentration camp is laid out as a memorial cemetery marked with commemorative plaques and monuments. 600 objects from a total of about 3100 items in the museum's collection are on permanent display, together with photocopies and photographs. The permanent display gives an overview of Yugoslav history since 1941 and depicts the Jasenovac concentration camp and its role in this history. A huge relief entitled To the Victims of Fascism by D. Đamonja and prints by I. Delale are integrated in the permanent display. The film The Gospel of Evil by Đorđe Kastratović is projected as a part of permanent display.

* According to the statements given at the press conference on the subject of the protection of cultural heritage on Serbian Television on 7 February 1992, hosted by the reporter Aleksandar Ilić and attended by Mr. Lukijan, Jovan Pavlović, and Nikola Kusovac, curator of the National Museum from Belgrade, a part of the museum's holdings was moved to Bosnia and Herzegovina.

** All houses in the entire place were reportedly severely damaged or completely destroyed. This information cannot be verified because Jasenovac is occupied and inaccessible.

*** The report on the situation of the Museum immediately before and after the occupation of Jasenovac was submitted to the Ministry of Culture and Education at the end of 1991 by Museum's director Jovan Mirković.

**** Terence Duffy, of the University of Ulster, reports in the paper "Museums in the Front Line, History's Weight", published in Museums Journal of February 1994, pg. 18, that the Museum was vandalised and the material thrown about the place (especially films, photographs and documents) by "local Croats". The act is interpreted as an uncontrolled expression of a subconscious desire to erase the memory of what had happened in Jasenovac during the Second World War. The Journal is available at MDC's library. The information was passed on to the Ministry of Culture and Education of the R. of H.

***** According to the report by ECMM HQ Zagreb ( 9 May 1994.), who started to monitor cultural monuments and museums on occupied territory of the Republic of Croatia in May 1994, the museum is entirely empty. " No furnishment, no sanitary equipment, no electricity. No remainings from the library or other exhibition items. Only in the big exposition hall all around the walls life size photographs with cruelties from WW2 are still there." There is no information on museum collections. The environment and the sculpture by Bogdan Bogdanović are undamaged.

Collections removed to this Museum:

" In addition to the archives of the Franciscan Monastery, the director brought in other collections from the area: part of the archaeological display was salvaged from Plitvice. The most important items came from the Drniška Krajina Museum ( 408 objects ). The director brought in the library and ethnographical exhibits of the Museum; above all he was able to salvage part of the permanent collection of 25 sculptures and 7 paintings of the great 20th-century Croatian artist, Ivan Meštrović.

Mr. Budimir reported these missing objects to the police.."

Number of museum objects: 20 290 + 30 000 archaeological artifacts from Vučedol

Inventory books microfilmed in 1974 and 1976, in safekeeping of Museum Documentation Center, Zagreb

The museum presents cultural history of Vukovar and the surrounding area through a permanent display and branch collections. It is situated in the Eltz chateau, built in 1749, one of the most beautiful Baroque buildings in Slavonia. The origins and development of the cultures of the region from prehistoric times to the Middle Ages are illustrated by the paleontological and archaeological collections, the most remarkable of these being the collections on the Danube Basin cultures: Vučedol culture, Illyrian-Celtic and Roman.

The medieval township and its environs - The County of Vukovar - are presented through extensive collections of archives, weapons, numismatic items and the like, as is the period of Turkish rule in the 16 and 17 centuries, the formation of the Duchy of Srijem (portraits of the prefects, the flag of the Prefecture dating from 1797), and the Eltz family's proprietorship from 1763 to 1944. Other collections cover the history of crafts and guilds, communal health-services and the bourgeoisie in the 18 and 19 century, when Vukovar was an important industrial, commercial, administrative and cultural center. The rich ethnographic collection illustrates village life in Slavonia. The exhibition concludes with a noteworthy collection on recent history through the first half of the 20 century.

The museum and its branches possess 32.513 items, some 4.000 of which are on permanent display.

The museum also has a remarkable library containing the Vukovariensa collection of books and newspapers printed in Vukovar. The museum directs field research on the nearby archaeological site of Vučedol. There are plans for establishing a Museum of Vučedol Culture and an open-air museum on the archaeological site.

* According to the Tanjug press agency and Serbian Television reports of 29 November, the possessions of Vukovar Municipal Museum and its branches, the Bauer Collection and Art Gallery, History Museum and Lavoslav Ružička Memorial Museum, as well as of the Vukovar City Library were taken from their shelters and removed from Vukovar under the supervision of the Minister of Culture of the Republic of Serbia Radomir Šaranović, the director of the National Library of Serbia Milomir Petrović, and with the assistance of the 20 members of staff of the Institute for the Protection of Cultural Heritage from Belgrade. The requisition of cultural property is contrariwise to the provisions of the Hague Convention and other international conventions. MDC therefore advised the General Director of the UNESCO and the UNESCO-ICOM in Paris on 29 November and on 3 December 1991. Since the collections belonging to Vukovar Municipal Museum and its branches were requisitioned after the occupation of the city, the Ministry of Culture and Education of the Republic of Croatia, assisted by MDC and the members of Vukovar Municipal Museum, and in close collaboration with UNESCO, ICOM, Interpol, The Art Loss Register, has been taking all necessary measures towards the restitution of the requisitioned museum's property.
