

IN MEMORIAM

ANTICA SERGOVIĆ

Dear colleagues, authors, reviewers and readers,

With a deep regret, we have to inform you that after Professor Ivo Sever, we had another tragic loss: our dear Secretary, Antica Sergović passed away on May 13th, 2018. She left her husband Boris and all of us in grief and sadness.

If our former Editor in Chief, prof. Ivo Sever was the brain of the game, Antica was certainly the heart and soul of our Journal. Our Anti was an exquisite personality: such a cheerful, fragile and lively lady surrounded by flowers while surrounding others with such positive energy that her “pushing” EB members to keep pace with tight schedules of publishing process, was a welcomed driving force to meet deadlines.

(1956 – 2018)

She was so dedicated to her job, not only because she loved it but she had an immense “inborn” responsibility for the final quality of the issue.

Her late-at-night emails were so common that we do miss them to remind us that we are running out of time. If you answered right away, she would be more than happy that you dropped her a line and proved to be aware of time ticking away...

Anti was a modest and rarely unselfish person. Caring and sharing, she would sacrifice her private passions and obligations just to finish her job on time or, very often, to support some of her colleagues' activities. She was silent about herself, you could only notice sparkle in her eyes when talking about the Journal, weekends in Istria, or her loving husband Boris.

Dear Anti, we miss you so much, and you will always be with us.

Still not believing her departure, with a tear in our eyes, we wholeheartedly wish her:

Rest in peace dear Anti ...
