

Of less known literary work of Ivan Golub before the 1990s

The order in which literary works by Ivan Golub, a Croatian priest, author and scientist, were published suggests, with some rare exceptions early on, that he started writing intensely only after the 1990s. However, we should take into consideration his works that are mostly unknown today and were created well before, but published only in the 1990s. That is probably because of the collapse of the communist socio-political order, which had prohibited literature of Christian inspiration up until then. It then becomes clear that Golub has been writing with the same intensity ever since the 1970s and to this day.
