

Dear readers,

the new edition of Zbornik Ekonomskog fakulteta/Proceedings of the Faculty of Economics and Business in Zagreb is once more bringing you a variety of topics from both the traditional and innovative fields of economics and business, as well as papers from the wider field of social sciences. Founded in 2003 as a journal open to papers in Croatian, Zbornik has also been publishing papers in English since July 2015. It is an open-access, subscription-free journal which is published semi-annually both in printed and electronic form. Publication decisions are made by an international editorial board and on the basis of a blind peer review process involving two reviewers. The publication policy and the decision-making process favour papers that make distinct theoretical and empirical contributions which may benefit key economic policy makers and the broader professional audience. More specifically, we aim to strengthen the connection between theory and practice and contribute to the critical evaluation of current events in the economy. Finally, the Journal is open to young scientists and researchers. As a result, they are encouraged to engage in research, expand their experiences and fulfil the publication requirements for promotion in research and teaching careers. The Editorial board of the Zbornik/Proceedings will maintain its focus on continuous quality improvement, efficacy and journal recognition both in Croatia and internationally.

We sincerely hope that the Zbornik/Proceedings will continue to attract authors who are dedicated to finding answers to challenging economic issues.

Zagreb, December 2018

*Anita Pavković,
Editor-in-Chief*