

Corrigendum

Ivan Cerovac, “Epistemic Liberalism”
Prolegomena 17 (1) 2018: 81–95, doi: 10.26362/20180205

The abovementioned review article did not sufficiently stress its dependence on the book Epistemic Liberalism: A defence (2016) by Adam James Tebble. For this reason, the online published version of the article is replaced with the version in which the following footnote is added to its title on p. 81:

Corrigendum: In this article, the overview of epistemic liberalism (pp. 83-89), the reference to the campfire analogy (p. 87), and the discussion of the concept of “legal silence” (p. 92) are based on Adam James Tebble’s book Epistemic Liberalism: A defence (2016). This footnote is inserted on February 10th, 2020, in the online published version of the article.

The author of the article and the editorial board of Prolegomena apologize to both the readers and Dr. Tebble for any inconvenience this may have caused.

