

From this moment on

2020

will be known as the year a global pandemic reshaped our world.

Taking over one million lives in just a few months.

Disrupting economies. People staying apart, to stand together.

So how we act now is critically important.

As communication professionals and researchers

From every continent on this planet,

We hereby make a statement of clear intent; a commitment.

We commit

To work jointly and put our full energy into bringing people together

To make a healthier world possible towards a harmonious shift to a viable, better future.

As the virus spread South and North,

Entrenched inequalities have been brought to the fore,

Taking its highest toll on the most disadvantaged,

Sowing hunger and distress.

As imposed isolation swept everywhere,

Our cities and metropolises turning into ghost towns,

This pandemic revealed a planet so intensely ravaged and fragile

That, from all corners of the Earth,

An urgent need for unified measures has emerged.

In the face of this pandemic, climate emergency and future threats

We commit

To shoulder our responsibility through information and communications,

To call for equal protection for all,

Strongly affirming that everyone deserves the same protection

Regardless of race, origin, gender, group or status.
