The Third European Conference on Low Dimensional Conductors and Superconductors, Dubrovnik 89, followed the two similar meetings, Zagreb (1985) and Aussois (1987). As before the meeting gathered mainly scientists from European countries. Of course, the guests from all over the world were most welcome.

The program contained three sections, on organic conductors, on CDW materials and on high T_c superconductors. The discovery of high T_c superconductivity has attracted the interest of many researchers and practically of all those working on organic conductors and CDW materials. Many concepts and methods used for the latter materials are also relevant for high T_c superconductors. This is why the latter were included in the program together with some remarkable new results in organic and CDW materials.

The conference was sponsored by the Union of Yugoslav Societies of Mathematicians, Physicists and Astronomers. It was organized by the Institute of Physics and the Department of Physics of the Faculty of Natural Sciences, University of Zagreb, and supported by the Scientific Research Committees of SR Croatia and SFR Yugoslavia. Participants from France and FR Germany were supported in part by CNRS and DFG respectively.
