Bribirska glavica – ranosrednjovjekovno groblje u Kvadra(n)tu 303

Tijekom arheoloških istraživanja na Bribirskoj glavici 1966. godine, provedenih zbog potrebe za proširenjem seoskog groblja na predjelu zvanom Groblje, istraženo je ukupno 19 grobova. Segment groblja obrađen u radu u literaturi se spominje kao „Kvadra(n)t 303". Podatci koji se donose temelje se na zabilješkama iz terenskog dnevnika (1966.) i na grobnim formularima nastalim od 15. kolovoza do 16. rujna 1966. Materijal pronađen u grobovima uglavnom se podudara s nalazima drugih dvaju ranosrednjovjekovnih groblja izvan zidina Bribirske glavice.

Bribirska Glavica – The early medieval cemetery in Quadra(n)t 303

During the archaeological investigations at Bribirska Glavica in 1966, carried out in response to the need to expand the village cemetery in the area known as Groblje, a total of 19 graves were excavated. The section of the cemetery that is presented in this paper is referred to as "Quadra(n)t 303" in the literature. The data provided here are based on entries in the excavation diary (1966) and on grave record forms dated from 15th August to 16th September 1966. The material recovered from the graves broadly corresponds to finds from the other two early medieval cemeteries situated outside the walls of Bribirska Glavica.

Bribirska glavica kontinuirano je naseljena od početka 1. tisućljeća pr. Kr. do 17. stoljeća. Dosad su na tom prostoru utvrđene tri lokacije s grobljima datiranim u ranosrednjovjekovno razdoblje. Na istočnom podnožju Bribirske glavice, izvan gradskog areala, 1960. godine istražena je lokacija Novi put prilikom izgradnje nove prilazne ceste.[1] Na sjeverozapadnoj strani Glavice, izvan gradskih zidina, nalazi se lokacija zvana Vratnice, istraživana od 1961. do 1963., a objavljena 1990. godine.[2] Na temelju nalaza, načina gradnje grobova i pogrebnih običaja oba se groblja datiraju u razdoblje od posljednje trećine 9. do 11. stoljeća. Na lokaciji Vratnice zabilježeno je i pet starijih grobova koji su prethodili srednjovjekovnom groblju te pripadaju razdoblju antike, okvirno 3. – 4. stoljeća. Treća lokacija na kojoj pronađeni materijal upućuje na ranosrednjovjekovno razdoblje nalazi se uz današnju crkvu sv. Joakima i Ane, na predjelu poznatom pod Bribirska Glavica was continuously inhabited from the beginning of the 1st millennium BC until the 17th century. So far, three locations with cemeteries dated to the early medieval period have been identified within this area. At the eastern foothills of Bribirska Glavica and outside the urban area, the site known as Novi put was investigated in 1960 in the course of the construction of a new access road.[1] On the north-western side of Glavica, outside the town walls, lies the site known as Vratnice, which was investigated between 1961 and 1963 and published in 1990.[2] Based on the finds, the grave building methods and the burial practices, both cemeteries are dated to the period from the last third of the 9th to the 11th century. At the site of Vratnice, five earlier graves predating the medieval cemetery were also recorded; these belong to the late ancient period, broadly the 3rd–4th century.

The third site yielding material indicative of the early medieval period is located next to the nazivima Groblje i Tjeme.[3] Na tim su se lokacijama od 1964. do 1980. godine istraživali srednjovjekovni grobovi. Iz nekih kampanja sačuvana je opsežnija dokumentacija (fotografije grobova, grobni formulari i bilješke u dnevniku istraživanja), dok za druge takva dokumentacija nije pronađena.

Prvi zabilježeni ranosrednjovjekovni nalazi s naznačenog prostora uključuju sedam pozlaćenih aplika, osam srebrnih pozlaćenih kapljičastih privjesaka i srebrni pozlaćeni prsten s krunom u obliku rozete. Predmeti su pronađeni prilikom kopanja recentnih grobova, a podatke o njihovu nalazu donosi fra Lujo Marun u svojim dnevnicima. Iako su aplike i privjesci ranije datirani u širok raspon od 9. stoljeća do kasnog srednjeg vijeka, novija ih literatura smješta u drugu polovinu 10. i prvu polovinu 11. stoljeća.[4] Prsten, koji Marun opisuje kao iznimno lijep, dugo se smatrao izgubljenim te je bio poznat samo po crtežu, sve dok nedavno nije pronađen u depou Muzeja grada Šibenika.[5] S istog mjesta potječe i jezičac tipa Hohenberg iz 8. stoljeća, koji je također slučajno pronađen.[6]

U kasnijim istraživanjima obuhvaćeni su južni i istočni dijelovi Groblja i Tjemena. Godine 1964. istraživano je groblje oko jednobrodne gotičke crkve, koje se u literaturi naziva groblje na Tjemenu, datirano u 14. – 15. stoljeće. Istraženo je 78 grobova, no groblje nije cjelovito objavljeno. Iduće godine istraživanja su nastavljena nakon demontaže prethodno istraženih grobova, pri čemu sudbina kosturnih ostataka nije zabilježena. Ispod kasnosrednjovjekovnih grobova počela se nazirati arhitektura starijih ukopa. Tada je dokumentirano 40 grobova te su izrađene table s nalazima.[7]

Godine 1966. istraživanja su premještena na istočni dio uz zid seoskog groblja (tzv. Kvadra(n) t 303) zbog potrebe njegova proširenja. Istraženo je 19 grobova, a u 14 je pronađen arheološki materijal. Godine 1967. u manjoj sondi uz zvonik današnje crkve pronađena su četiri groba, od kojih je jedan sadržavao prsten od pletene srebrne žice i jednojagodnu naušnicu. Tijekom 1968. godine istraženo je present-day Church of Sts. Joachim and Anne and known under the toponyms Groblje and Tjeme.[3] Medieval graves had been investigated at all three sites between 1964 and 1980. More extensive documentation has survived from some campaigns (photographs of graves, grave record forms and entries in the excavation diary), whereas no such documentation has come to light for others.

The earliest mentioned early medieval finds from this area comprise seven gilded appliqués, eight silver-gilt teardrop-shaped pendants, and a silver-gilt ring with a rosette-shaped bezel. These objects were discovered during the digging of recent graves, and the circumstances of their discovery are documented in the diaries of Fra Lujo Marun. Although the appliqués and pendants were previously dated to a broad range spanning from the 9th century to the Late Middle Ages, more recent scholarship places them in the second half of the 10th and the first half of the 11th century.[4] The ring, which Marun describes as exceptionally beautiful, had long been considered lost and was known only from a drawing, until it was recently rediscovered in the holdings of the Šibenik City Museum.[5] A strap-end of the Hohenberg type dating to the 8th century, likewise found by chance, also originates from the same location.[6]

Subsequent investigations encompassed the southern and eastern parts of Groblje and Tjeme. In 1964, the cemetery surrounding the single-nave Gothic church, referred to in the literature as the cemetery at Tjeme and dated to the 14th–15th century, was investigated. A total of 78 graves were excavated, though the cemetery has not been fully published. The following year excavations continued after the dismantling of the previously investigated graves, yet the fate of the skeletal remains was not recorded. Beneath the late medieval graves, the architecture of earlier burials began to emerge. At that time, 40 graves were documented, accompanied by illustrative plates of the finds.[7] još nekoliko grobova s nalazima na prostoru Tjemena, dok je 1969. godine na prostoru stare mrtvačnice otkriveno sedam grobova u kojima se kao nalazi spominju brončane karičice. U kampanjama 1979. i 1980. godine istraženi su grobovi južno od Kvadra(n)ta 303. Ta se pozicija u formularima naziva „Pod istočnim zidom groblja". Nalaze su uglavnom činile jednostavne karičice i prstenje te dvije jagode ukrašene filigranom i granulacijom. Posebno je zanimljiv navod u dnevniku o pronalasku ptičjih kostiju i ljuski jaja u pojedinim grobovima.[8] U novijim istraživanjima provedenim između 2014. i 2019. godine unutar crkve sv. Joakima i Ane i oko nje istraženo je nekoliko grobova čiji materijal ukazuje na ranosrednjovjekovni nastanak. Dvije trokutaste zdjele pronađene pored uništenog groba 17, nad kojim je izgrađen sjeverni zid današnje crkve, mogu se dosta široko datirati u razdoblje između 7. i 10. stoljeća te predstavljaju jedinstvene nalaze na prostoru ranosrednjovjekovne Hrvatske.[9] Koštani recipijent iz istog konteksta također se može datirati u širi vremenski raspon, a najbliža analogija, što se dekoracije tiče, jest koštani recipijent pronađen u grobu 99 na groblju Spas ispod kninske tvrđave.[10] Osim toga, u blizini istog groba pronađeni su zlatna karičica s jednim granuliranim zrnom i zrno jednojagodne naušnice.[11] U istom sloju, ali nešto dalje od groba 17, pronađeni su i dijelovi ostruga i njihovih garnitura. Pripadaju 9. stoljeću i imaju brojne analogije na prostoru Hrvatske.[12] Ranosrednjovjekovne datacije je i koštani tuljac pronađen 2017. godine tijekom istraživanja groblja sjeverno od crkve sv. Joakima i Ane.[13]

In 1966, investigations were relocated to the eastern section along the wall of the village cemetery (the so-called Quadra(n)t 303), necessitated by plans for its expansion. A total of 19 graves were excavated, 14 of which yielded archaeological material. In 1967, a smaller trench adjacent to the bell tower of the present-day church revealed four graves, one of which contained a ring of braided silver wire and a single-bead earring. During 1968, several further graves with finds were excavated in the area of Tjeme, while in 1969 seven graves were discovered in the area of the old mortuary, in which bronze circlets as finds are documented in the records. In the campaigns of 1979 and 1980, graves south of Quadra(n)t 303 were investigated. This position is designated in the grave record forms as "Pod istočnim zidom groblja" (Below the eastern cemetery wall). The finds consisted mainly of simple circlets, rings and two beads decorated with filigree and granulation. Particularly noteworthy is the entry in the excavation diary regarding the discovery of bird bones and eggshells in certain graves.[8] Recent excavations conducted between 2014 and 2019 in and around the Church of Sts. Joachim and Anne uncovered several graves whose material indicates early medieval origins. Two triangular bowls found beside the destroyed grave 17, above which the northern wall of the present church was constructed, can be broadly dated to the period between the 7th and the 10th century and constitute unique finds within the territory of early medieval Croatia.[9] A bone container from the same context can likewise be assigned to a broader chronological range; its closest parallel in terms of decoration is the bone container found in grave 99 at the Spas cemetery below the Knin fortress.[10] In addition, a gold circlet with a single granulated bead and the bead of a single-bead earring were found in the vicinity of the same grave.[11] Elements belonging to objavljeni. Dušan Jelovina navodi da je do 1968. godine istraženo 77 grobova u gornjem sloju oko gotičke crkve te dodatna 33 groba u starijem sloju. Stariji grobovi bili su bogatiji nalazima i orijentirani u smjeru zapad-istok. Nalazi iz tog starijeg sloja uključuju karičice, naušnice, prstenje, privjeske, ostrugu, noževe i predice, a groblje se datira u razdoblje između 9. i 11. stoljeća.[14]

Mate Zekan predlaže kasniju dataciju od grobalja pronađenih na Vratnicama i Novom putu te ga smješta u razdoblje između 10. i 14. stoljeća. Ujedno donosi nekoliko predmeta pronađenih tijekom istraživanja.[15]

Maja Petrinec svrstava ovo groblje u fazu groblja s kršćanskim načinom ukapanja. Navodi da se vjerojatno formiralo kao groblje na redove koje je kasnije na jednom dijelu bilo preslojeno mlađim grobovima iz 14. – 15. stoljeća. Od nalaza izdvaja sedam pozlaćenih aplika, osam srebrnih pozlaćenih kapljičastih privjesaka i srebrni pozlaćeni prsten s krunom u obliku rozete.[16] Također izdvaja predmete iz grobova G-2/1965 – dva puceta ukrašena granulacijom, G-10/1965 – dvije srebrne jednojagodne naušnice i G-19/1966 (naveden kao G-12) – dvije jagode ukrašene filigranom i granulacijom (kat. br. 34 i 35), kao i S-karičicu od uvijene žice pronađenu izvan grobova 1965. godine.[17]

Vladimir Sokol donosi dataciju groblja na Tjemenu i Groblju smještajući ga u drugu, treću i četvrtu fazu, dakle između približno 850. i 1450. godine.[18] Također spominje nekoliko vrsta naušnica s tih pozicija, no uglavnom je riječ o nakitnim oblicima mlađe faze ukapanja.[19]

Kvadra(n)t 303

Dio groblja koji se u arheološkoj literaturi spominje pod nazivom „Kvadra(n)t 303“ nalazi se istočno od crkve sv. Joakima i Ane na Bribirskoj glavici. U Arhivu Muzeja hrvatskih arheoloških spomenika u Splitu čuvaju se dnevnici istraživanja, grobni formulari, tabla s nalazima i nekoliko fotografija s tih istraživanja.

spurs and associated fittings were recovered from the same layer, though at some distance from grave 17. They date to the 9th century and have numerous parallels in Croatia.[12] Dating to the early medieval period is also a bone tube discovered in 2017 during the investigation of the cemetery north of the Church of Sts. Joachim and Anne.[13]

Due to the lack of documentation and the impossibility of systematic analysis, the results of these investigations have not been fully published. Dušan Jelovina records that by 1968 a total of 77 graves had been investigated in the upper stratum around the Gothic church and an additional 33 in the older stratum. The earlier graves were richer in finds and oriented west–east. The finds from this older stratum include circlets, earrings, rings, pendants, a spur, knives and buckles, and the cemetery is dated between the 9th and the 11th centuries.[14]

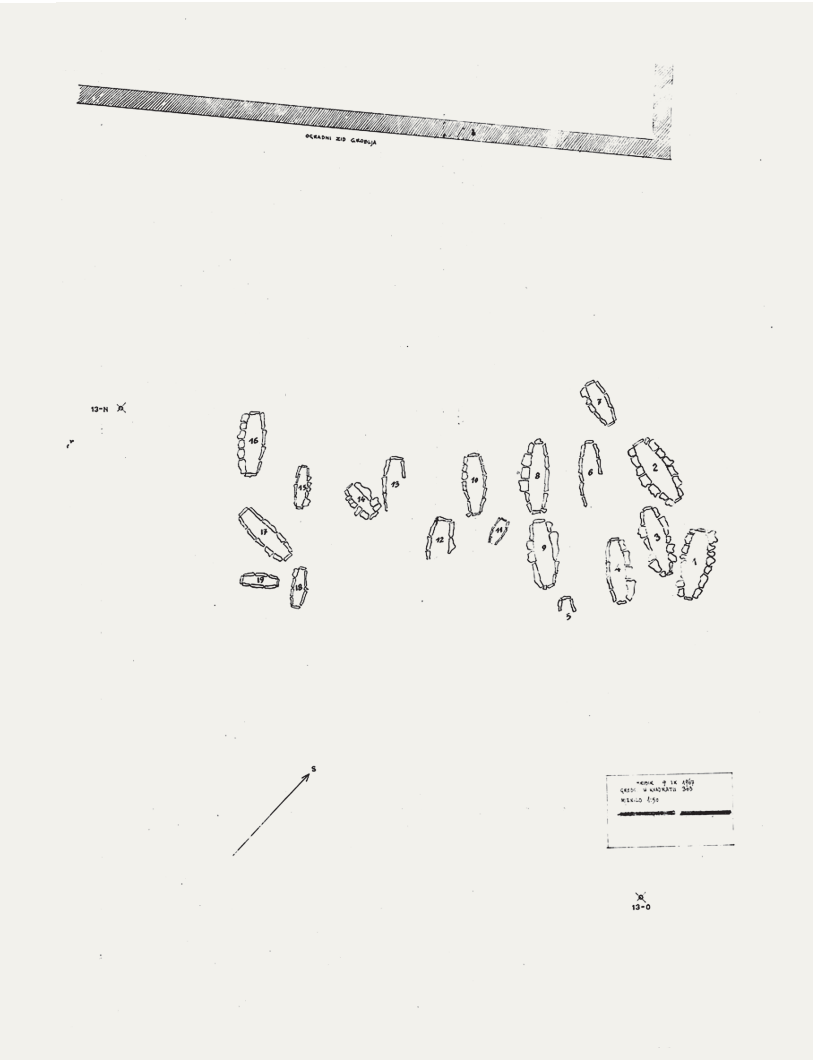

Mate Zekan proposes a later dating than that of the cemeteries discovered at Vratnice and Novi Put, placing it between the 10th and the 14th centuries. He also presents several artefacts that were found during the excavations.[15]

Maja Petrinec classifies this cemetery within the phase of cemeteries characterised by Christian burial rites. She notes that it most probably developed as a row-grave cemetery that was subsequently overlaid in part by later burials dating to the 14th–15th century. Among the finds she highlights seven gilded appliqués, eight silver-gilt teardrop-shaped pendants and a silver-gilt ring with a rosette-shaped bezel.[16] She further singles out objects from G-2/1965 - two buttons decorated with granulation, G-10/1965 - two silver single-bead earrings, and G-19/1966 (listed as G-12) - two beads decorated with filigree and granulation (cat. 34 and 35), as well as a S-shaped circlet made of twisted wire, found outside the graves in 1965.[17]

Vladimir Sokol dates the cemetery at Tjeme and Groblje to the second, third and fourth phases, thus placing it broadly between c. 850 and 1450.[18] He also mentions several types of earrings from these

Iz istraženih grobova objavljeni su tek pojedinačni nalazi, i to uz različite prijedloge datacije: obična karičica iz groba 17 (kat. br. 32), karičica s koljencima iz groba 13 (kat. br. 25) i dvije jagode iz groba 19 (kat. br. 34 i 35).[20]

Istraživanja grobova na sjeveroistočnom dijelu odvijala su se 1966. godine, ponajprije zbog potrebe mještana za proširenjem groblja. U dnevniku istraživanja navodi se da su se poklopnice grobova počele nazirati 11. kolovoza 1966. kod jugoistočnog ogradnog zida novog groblja u dubini od 30 do 40 cm. Sljedećeg dana napominje se kako se grobovi javljaju sve gušće, i to u smjeru sjeverozapada, locations, though these belong predominantly to jewellery forms that are associated with the later burial phase.[19]

QUADRA(N)T 303

The section of the cemetery referred to in archaeological literature as "Quadra(n)t 303" is situated east of the Church of Sts. Joachim and Anne at Bribirska Glavica. The Archive of the Museum of Croatian Archaeological Monuments in Split holds the excavation diaries, grave record forms, the plate with finds and several photographs from these excavations.

Only individual finds from the excavated graves have been published, with varying proposed dates: a plain circlet from grave 17 (cat. 32), a circlet with joint from grave 13 (cat. 25) and two beads from grave 19 (cat. 34 and 35).[20]

The investigation of graves in the north-eastern sector took place in 1966, prompted primarily by the need of the local residents to expand the cemetery. According to the excavation diary, grave covers first began to appear on 11th August 1966, near the south-eastern enclosure wall of the new cemetery, at a depth of 30–40 cm. The following day, it was noted that the graves were appearing with increasing density in a north-westerly direction, i.e. towards the present cemetery. A total of 19 graves were discovered. Since no anthropological analyses were conducted at the time, the interpretation of the burials relies exclusively on information recorded in the grave record forms. According to these records, 8 female, 7 child and 4 male graves were identified. Finds were present in 14 of them. Objects, predominantly jewellery, were recovered from 8 female, 5 child and 1 male grave. The graves were constructed either from irregular stones or from vertically set stone slabs with covers, i.e. with irregular stone slabs. The grave floors consisted of natural soil, except in graves 6 and 7, where they were paved with stone. Each grave contained a single individual with arms extended alongside the body. The orientation of the graves varies: the majority are oriented north-west to south-east (12 graves), 6 are oriented west to east, and one has a south to north orientation.

The most frequently encountered objects in the graves are plain circlets, predominantly made of bronze wire (Cat. 3, 4, 5, 6, 13, 15, 18, 19, 21, 22, tj. prema današnjem groblju. Pronađeno je ukupno 19 grobova. Kako u tom razdoblju nisu rađene antropološke analize, možemo se oslanjati samo na podatke iz grobnih formulara. Prema tim informacijama, pronađeno je osam ženskih, sedam dječjih i četiri muška groba. Nalazi su zabilježeni u njih 14. Predmeti, uglavnom nakit, pronađeni su u osam ženskih, pet dječjih i jednom muškom grobu. Grobovi su građeni od nepravilnog kamena ili usađenih kamenih ploča s poklopnicama od nepravilnih ploča. Dno groba u pravilu je bilo zemljano, osim kod grobova 6 i 7, gdje je bilo popločano. U grobovima je bio po jedan pokojnik s rukama ispruženima uz tijelo. Orijentacija grobova varira: većina ih je orijentirana u smjeru sjeverozapad-jugoistok (12 grobova), šest u smjeru zapad-istok, dok jedan grob ima orijentaciju jug-sjever.

Najčešći predmeti koji se nalaze u grobovima su obične karičice, uglavnom načinjene od brončane žice (kat. br. 3 – 6, 13, 15, 18 – 19, 21 – 23, 26 – 28, 32 – 33), uz jedan primjerak izrađen od srebra (kat. br. 1). Veličina karičica varira od vrlo malih, promjera oko 1 cm, do većih primjeraka promjera približno 4 cm. Ovaj tip naušnica ili sljepoočničarki ubraja se među najzastupljenije tipove nakita na grobljima s kršćanskim načinom pokapanja. Zbog svoje jednostavne forme koriste se u širokom vremenskom rasponu i nemaju značaj u kronološkom smislu. U pojedinim grobovima pronađeno je više primjeraka ovog nakita, što upućuje na mogućnost njihova nošenja kao sljepoočničarki, pričvršćenih na vrpcu ili upletenih u kosu.[21]

Karičice s koljencima karakteriziraju dva ili tri koljenca načinjena od višestruko uvijene žice (kat. br. 12, 14, 24 – 25), dok su četiri primjerka izrađena od uvijene tordirane žice (kat. br. 9 – 10, 29 – 30). Ovaj tip posebno je zastupljen na groblju Spas kod kninske tvrđave, gdje se javlja u šest grobova.[22] Na Bribirskoj glavici na lokalitetu Vratnice

23, 26, 27, 28, 32, 33) with one specimen made of silver (Cat. 1). The size of the circlets varies considerably, from very small examples with a diameter of approximately 1 cm to larger specimens measuring about 4 cm in diameter. This type of earring or temple ring constitutes one of the most widespread forms of jewellery found in cemeteries characterised by Christian burial rites. Due to their simple form, they were in use over a long period of time and therefore possess limited chronological value. The occurrence of multiple specimens within pronađene su u pet grobova, s ukupno osam primjeraka izrađenih od bronce,[23] dok su na groblju Novi put dvije brončane karičice s koljencima pronađene izvan grobova.[24] Slične su karičice pronađene i u razorenim grobovima u Smokoviću,[25] Mravincima (Glavičine)[26] i na Lopuškoj glavici, gdje je par takvih naušnica pronađen zajedno s prstenom s natpisom PAX, datiranim u kraj 10. i prvu polovinu 11. stoljeća.

[22] Jelovina 1989. Karičice s koljencima na kninskom Spasu uglavnom se javljaju u paru, a tri primjerka pronađena su izvan grobova. Većina primjeraka izrađena je od bronce (sedam primjeraka), što odgovara situaciji u Kvadra(n)tu 303, dok su srebrni primjerci zastupljeni u nešto manjem broju, uključujući i srebrne primjerke s pozlatom te jedan primjerak posrebrene bronce: G.22 (T. III, 6–7), G.41 (T. V, 1–2), G.69 (T. VI, 1–2), G.159 (T. XVII, 6–7), G.171 (T. XVIII, 7), G.186 (T. XIX, 11–12), izvan grobova (T. XXIV, 28–30).

Jagoda naušnice iz groba 19 (kat. br. 34) donekle pokazuje sličnost sa sljepoočničarkom iz groba 130 na lokalitetu Knin – Spas, i to u načinu ukrašavanja zrna ovalnim oblikom brončane žice. Druga jagoda naušnice (kat. br. 35) ima gotovo identičan ukras kao zrna sljepoočničarki iz groba 79 na lokalitetu Knin – Spas.[27] Dekoracija obiju jagoda pokazuje sličnost s luksuznijim sljepoočničarkama načinjenima od zlata iz Koljana.[28] Naime, one imaju koncentrične krugove s granuliranim zrnima u središtu, kao i kat. br. 35, dok ovalni motiv uokviren žicom nalikuje zrnu na primjerku kat. br. 34. Prema M. Petrinec, ovaj se nakit može datirati između početka 10. i 12. stoljeća.

Prstenje je zastupljeno u pet primjeraka. Dva su pravokutnog presjeka i bez ukrasa (kat. br. 11 i 31), jedan prsten, danas oštećen, vjerojatno je imao pločicu (kat. br. 7), dok se masivni olovni prsten D-presjeka (kat. br. 23) može povezati s nalazom iz groba 9 s groblja Novi put na Bribiru.[29] Zanimljiv je prsten D-presjeka iz groba 6 (kat. br. 16), ukrašen žlijebom na kojem se vide tragovi emajla i pozlate.

Dio perle ogrlice čest je nalaz u ranom srednjem vijeku, no takve su se perle proizvodile od 1. pa sve do 10. stoljeća. U Muzeju HAS-u čuva se nekoliko primjeraka s nepoznatih lokaliteta, a jedna perla pronađena u grobu 14 na lokalitetu Knin – Greblje datirana je u 6. stoljeće.[30] individual graves suggests that they may have been worn as temple rings attached to a headband or woven into the hair.[21]

Circlets with joints are characterised by two or three joints made from multiply coiled wire (cat. 12, 14, 24-25), while four specimens are made of coiled twisted wire (cat. no. 9-10, 29-30). This type is particularly well represented at the Spas cemetery near the Knin fortress, where it was discovered in six graves.[22] At the site of Vratnice on Bribirska Glavica, circlets with joints were found in five graves, with eight specimens made of bronze,[23] while two specimens of this type were found outside the graves at the Novi put cemetery.[24] Similar circlets have also been found in disturbed graves in Smoković, [25] Mravinci (Glavičine)[26] and at Lopuška Glavica, where a pair of such earrings was found together with a ring bearing the inscription PAX, dated to the end of the 10th and the first half of the 11th century.

The bead of an earring from grave 19 (cat. no. 34) bears some resemblance to the temple ring from grave 130 at the Knin-Spas site, specifically in the decoration of the bead with an oval form of bronze wire. The bead of the earring (cat. 35) has an almost identical decoration to the beads of the temple rings from grave 79 at the Knin-Spas site.[27] The decoration of both beads shows resemblance to the more luxurious gold temple rings from Koljane,[28] which feature concentric circles with granulated beads at the centre, as in cat. 35, while the oval motif framed [22] Jelovina 1989, Earrings with joints at the Spas cemetery in Knin occur predominantly in pairs, while three specimens were found outside graves. Most specimens were made of bronze (seven specimens), which corresponds to the situation in Quadra(n)t 303, whereas silver examples are represented in somewhat smaller numbers, including silver specimens with gilding and one example made of silver-plated bronze: G-22 (Pl. III, 6-7); G.41 (Pl.V.,1-2);G.69 (Pl.VI, 1,2); G.159 (Pl. XVII., 6-7); G.171.(Pl. XVIII, 7) ; G.186 (Pl.XIX, 11,12); outside graves (Pl.XXIV, 28-30).

Dva predmeta nepoznate namjene nije moguće vremenski odrediti (kat. br. 2 i 8).

U kontekstu grobalja pronađenih na Bribirskoj glavici i ovaj je dio groblja vjerojatno nastao kada i groblja na Vratnicama i Novom putu. Mogu se dovesti u vezu s rotondom nastalom krajem 5. stoljeća koja se obnavlja u posljednjoj trećini 9. stoljeća. U sljedećim će se objavama pokušati donijeti katalog svih grobova koji pripadaju tom razdoblju kako bi se pojasnila situacija na ovom dijelu Bribirske glavice.

by wire resembles the bead cat. 34. According to M. Petrinec, this category of jewellery can be dated to the period between the beginning of the 10th and the 12th centuries.

Finger rings are represented by five specimens; two are of rectangular cross-section without ornamentation (cat. 11, cat. 31), one ring, damaged, probably had a bezel plate (cat. 7), while a massive D-sectioned ring made of lead (cat. 23) can be associated with the find from grave 9 at the Novi put cemetery at Bribir.[29] Of particular interest is a D-sectioned ring from grave 6 (cat. 16) decorated with a groove in which traces of enamel and gilding are visible.

Parts of necklace beads are a frequent find in early medieval contexts, although they were produced from the 1st to the 10th century. There are several specimens of unknown provenance preserved in the Museum of Croatian Archaeological Monuments, while a bead recovered from grave 14 at the Knin–Greblje site has been dated to the 6th century.[30]

Two objects, the purposes of which are not known, cannot be chronologically determined (cat. 2, cat. 8).

Viewed in the context of the cemeteries identified at Bribirska Glavica, this section was most likely established at the same time as the cemeteries at Vratnice and Novi put. It may be associated with the rotunda that was built at the end of the 5th century and restored during the final third of the 9th century. Future publications will seek to present a catalogue of all graves belonging to this period in order to clarify the archaeological situation in this part of Bribirska glavica.

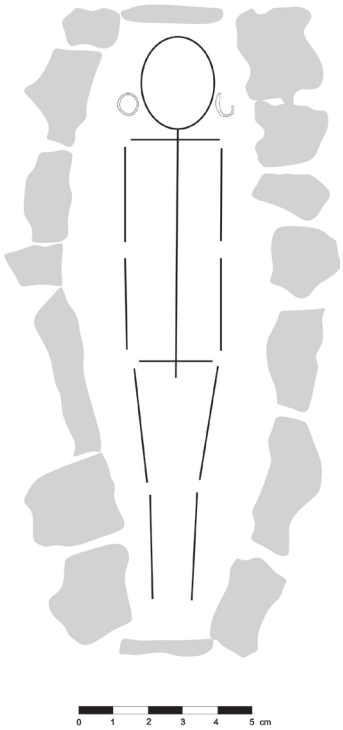

[29] Uroda 2020, pp. 329-330, gr. 9, cat. 16; the grave also contained two richly decorated single-bead earrings.
