U sjeverozapadnom dijelu Splita, u predjelima Lora i Poljud ustanovljene su najveće rimskodobne nekropole. Na značajke nekropole u Lori, otkrivene godine 1965., ukazao je Nenad Cambj. Radi se o pretežno paljevinskim grobovima s urnama te o dva zidana groba za inhumacije; ukopi su obavljani nesustavno, na što upućuje nedostatak grobnih parcela i grobišne arhitekture, nadgrobnih spomenika i natpisa. Jedino natpis Gaja Orhivija Amempta, ugrađen u južni zid samostanske crkve u Poljudu, u blizini Lore, Cambj drži mogućim pokazateljem značajnije arhitekture sepulkralnoga karaktera na grobišnoj parceli u Lori, odnosno u Poljudu. Nenad Cambj nekropolu u Lori datira od 2. polovice 1. st. do ranog 3. st. po. Kr., oslanjajući se na navedene okolnosti nalaza. Mladen Nikolanci skupni nalaz urna i grobnih priloga uništenog osuarija na Poljudu godine 1953. datira u kraj 1. st. i početak 2. st. po. Kr. U ovom se radu obrađuje sav prikupljeni i sačuvani materijal za koji pouzdano znamo da potječe iz splitske nekropole u Lori. Grobovi su numerirani kao u Popisu nalaza s istraživanja godine 1965., evaluirani u odnosu na relevantne priloge i okolnosti nalaza, a svi prilozi su katalogizirani. Svjedočanstvo su organiziranoga rimskog života na splitskom poluotoku od druge polovice 1. stoljeća do 3., možda 4. stoljeća po. Kr.

Ključne riječi: Split, Lora, rimskodobna nekropola

The largest Roman-era necropolises in Split were ascertained in the city's north-west, at the Lora and Poljud sections. Nenad Cambj described the features of the necropolis in Lora, discovered in 1965, with mainly incineration burials in urns, and two walled graves for inhumation, with non-systematic interments, which is indicated by the lack of grave plots, sepulchral architecture, gravestones and inscriptions. Only the inscription of Gaius Orchivius Amemptus is built into the southern wall of the monastery church in Poljud, near Lora, is held as a possible indicator of sepulchral architecture at the grave plots in Lora and Poljud. Nenad Cambj dated the necropolis in Lora to the latter half of the first century to the third century AD, based on the aforementioned find context. Mladen Nikolanci dated the group find of urns and grave goods of the devastated ossuary in Poljud in 1953 to the end of the first and early second centuries AD. All gathered and preserved materials which is known for certain to come from the Split necropolis in Lora are analyzed in this work. The graves are numbered as in the Inventory of Finds from the research conducted in 1965 and evaluated with due consideration for the relevant goods and find circumstances, and all goods are catalogued. They bear witness to organized Roman life on the Split peninsula from the latter half of the first to the third centuries, and possibly also the fourth century AD.

U arhivu splitskog Arheološkog muzeja čuva se jedan dokument koji svjedoči o istraživanjima u predjelu Lora u Splitu.¹ Prilikom probijanja zemljanog nasipa za izgradnju ceste pri ulazu u vojnu luku otkriveni su antički grobovi. Tadašnji zamjenik direktora Muzeja Mladen Nikolanci temeljem Zakona o zaštiti spomenika kulture moli komandanta Vojne luke da u svrhu istraživanja na samom ulazu u Vojnu luku dopusti pristup radnicima, koje navodi imenom, prezimenom, brojem osobne iskaznice i mjestom stanovanja.² Kad je, dakle, jedan dio nekropole destruiran građevinskim strojevima, direktor muzeja Branimir Gabričević zamolio je tada nezaposlenog arheologa Nenada Cambja da prati radove. U veljači 1965. godine Split i Arheološki muzej posjetio je glasoviti arheolog Heinz Kähler,³ kojeg su muzejski djelatnici izvijestili o nalazu nekropole. N. Cambj se sjeća kako su nakon istraživanja on i svi koji su sudjelovali u istraživanjima i boravili u Lori, ispitivani od KOS-a,⁴ jer je u Loru, u vojni prostor, bez Gabričevićeve suglasnosti, bio ušao Heinz Kähler svojim automobilom. Heinz Kählera navodno je pozvao Josip Horkić, tadašnji muzejski fotograf, kojega su ostali štitili da ne bude osumnjičen. Kähler je u Loru ušao samo iz radoznalosti, koje je imao u bezgraničnom opsegu, ali, istini za volju, i iz želje da pomogne, jer nitko u to doba nije imao nikakvo vozilo.⁵

Sudeći prema datumima upisanim na kutijama s nalazima, odnosno na papirima na kojima je Nenad Cambj popisao nalaze prema grobovima, teren je trajao 23. i 24. veljače, te 11. i 12. ožujka 1965. godine. Istraživanja su trajala nekoliko dana, a potom je tijekom vikenda, premda je bilo najavljeno da se neće raditi, nekropola barbarski devastirana i pokradena, a Nenad Cambj nije imao ni dozvolu za pristup Vojnoj luci preko vikenda.⁶ Nažalost, nismo u posjedu terenske dokumentacije i nismo sigurni u točnu lokaciju tada otkrivene nekropole.⁷ No znamo u kojem dijelu Lore nekropola nije otkrivena. Naime, prilikom pripreme terena za eventualnu gradnju nove športske dvorane 2007. - 2008. godine splitski Arheološki muzej u Lori je proveo zaštitna istraživanja; u zoni obuhvata, sjeveroistočno od

The archives of the Archaeological Museum in Split contain a document which testifies to research conducted in the Lora section of Split.¹ Roman-era graves were discovered during demolition of an earthen embankment to construct a road at the entrance to the naval harbour. Citing the Cultural Monument Protection Act, the Museum's director at the time, Mladen Nikolanci, asked the naval base commandant to allow his staff members access to the entrance to the naval base's entrance, providing their full names, personal identification card numbers and registered residential addresses.² When a part of the necropolis was destroyed by construction machinery, Museum director Branimir Gabričević asked the then unemployed archaeologist Nenad Cambj to oversee the works. At the time, in February 1965, Split and the Archaeological Museum were visited by the renowned archaeologist Heinz Kähler,³ who was informed by the Museum's staff about the necropolis find. Cambj recalled that after the research work, all of those who participated in the research and who were in Lora were questioned by the Yugoslav military's counterintelligence agency (KOS),⁴ for Kähler had driven into the Lora naval harbour zone, a military facility, without Gabričević's consent, with his personal automobile. Kähler was reportedly invited by Josip Horkić, the Museum's photographer at the time, whom they had shielded to keep him from being a suspect. Kähler only entered out of curiosity, which he possessed in boundless supply, but also, truth be told, to render assistance, since nobody at that time had any sort of motor vehicle.⁵

Judging by the dates written on the boxes containing the finds, and on the papers on which Nenad Cambj listed the finds according to graves, the field work was conducted on 23-24 February and then 11-12 March 1965. The research lasted several days, but then during a weekend, when it was announced that no works would be conducted, the necropolis was rather barbarically devastated and looted, and Nenad Cambj did not even have permission to access the naval harbour over the weekend.⁶ Unfortunately, we do not have the field documentation, and we are uncertain as to the precise location of the necropolis discovered

5 Ovo se, kao i drugi navodi o okolnostima nalaza u Lori, temelji na razgovorima s akademikom Nenadom Cambjem, na čemu sam mu zahvalna.

6 Stanko Piplović, koji je tada nadzirao radove, bio je u Zagrebu. Kad se vratio, zatekao je devastiranu nekropolu. Sjeća se da su u rupama od grobova koje su ostale u zemljanom profilu uz cestu poslije pekli kruhove.

5 This, like other details concerning the circumstances of the finds in Lora, are based on conversations with Nenad Cambj, for which I am grateful to him.

ulaza u Vojnu luku i na području Brodogradilišta, nisu nađeni ostatci nekropole, a arheološki je zanimljiv samo sjeverozapadni dio zone, u kojem su istraženi ostatci rimske vile.⁸ Grobovi su, prema Piploviću, nađeni nedaleko od mora, u uvali što ju čine poluotoci Mali rat i Lora, a otkopan je samo dio nekropole što se proteže dalje prema istoku.⁹ Nalazi iz godine 1965. konzervirani su u beogradskom Narodnom muzeju,¹⁰ odnosno u Saveznom institutu za zaštitu spomenika kulture.¹¹ Potom su pohranjeni u depou splitskog Arheološkog muzeja gdje su bili izloženi propadanju. U Muzeju je godine 2003. uređen depo rimskoprovincijalne zbirke; grčko-helenistička građa izdvojena je iz depoa u drugi podrumski prostor, ugrađene su zidne i pomične police, građa je urednije složena prema materijalima, odnosno mjestima nalaza. Tako su ponovno 'otkriveni' pa, prema provedenoj muzejskoj reviziji, konzervirani i nacrtani nalazi iz Lore iz godine 1965., kao i oni iz 1953. koje je objavio Nikolanci.¹² at the time.⁷ But we do know in which part of Lora the necropolis was not discovered. Namely, during preparations of the terrain for potential construction of a new sports arena in 2007-2008, the Archaeological Museum in Split conducted rescue excavations; no remains of a necropolis were found in the encompassed zone, north-east of the entrance to the naval harbour and on the grounds of the shipyard, while only the north-west part of the zone was interesting in the archaeological sense, as the remains of a Roman villa were examined.⁸ According to Piplović, the graves were found not far from the seashore in a cove formed by the Mali rat and Lora peninsulas, and only that part of the necropolis extending further eastward was excavated.⁹ The finds from 1965 underwent conservation works in the National Museum in Belgrade,¹⁰ and the Federal Cultural Monument Protection Institute.¹¹ They were then stored in the depot of the Archaeological Museum in Split, where they deteriorated. In 2003, the depot of the Roman Provincial Collection was reorganized in the Museum; the Graeco-Hellenistic materials were removed from this depot into another basement room, and partitions and movable shelves were installed. The materials were arranged in a more orderly 10 Branko Penđer, voditelj odjela tehničkih poslova splitskog Arheološkog muzeja, sjeća se da je godine 1990. otišao po te nalaze u Narodni muzej u Beograd, gdje ih je konzervirala Đorđina Stojanović-Gabričević. Materijal u vlasništvu Arheološkog muzeja u Splitu je nakon njezine smrti nađen u ormarima Narodnog muzeja. A. Stojković u ime Narodnog muzeja i B. Penđer u ime splitskog Arheološkog muzeja potpisali su, 2. listopada 1990. god., potvrdu o preuzimanju navedenog materijala. O tomu u splitskom Arheološkom muzeju postoji trag u Urudžbenom zapisniku i registratoru pod. Ur. broj 112-90-561, te u izvješću o radu B. Penđera za listopad 1990. Nigdje se ne spominje da je riječ o građi iz splitske Lore; navodi se materijal iz Salone u vlasništvu Arheološkog muzeja u Splitu, odnosno materijal iz Salone 1969., 1970. g.

11 U kutijama s građom sačuvan je jedan list papira ispisan (s jedne strane) Cambjevim rukopisom, koji nije proveden kroz knjigu protokola. Ovdje donosimo prijepis:

Savezni institut za zaštitu spomenika kulture - Beograd 28. IV 1965 - 6.

- 1) Dva zvjezdolika brončana predmeta (okova).
- 2) Srebrni prsten pozlaćen sa staklenom gemom u zlatnom okviru - ležištu. Na gemi elipsastog oblika urezana je sjedeća figura.
- 3) Prsten s gemom. Gema učvršćena olovom.
- 4) Prsten s gemom. Fragmentiran od željeza. Gema je tamnozeleno boje elipsastog oblika i urezanim likom u hodu i cvijetom na stabljici.
- 5) Srebrna igla - kašičica duž. 9,5. Bez vrha.
- 6) Brončana posudica - valjkastog oblika. Vis 4,1, promjer 3,6 cm.
- 7) Bezoblična gruda izgorene mase utopljeni: ostaci kostiju, tkanine i željezni prsten s gemom.
- 8) Ostaci bezobličnog komada rđe.

Svi predmeti su uokvireni osim onog pod brojem 6 i 8 - uz koji je strjelicom vezan zaokružen upitnik.

12 Predmete je konzervirao Ivo Donelli, nacrtao Zoran Podrug, a B. Penđer T. 13, G15.34-49, fotografije je izradio Ante Verzotti; ovdje se ne objavljuju crteži građe iz Poljuda, ta je građa objavljena bez ilustracija, osim staklene svjetiljke: Nikolanci 1952, str. 192-196.

7 Piplović 1976; I could not find Cambj's map of the necropolis, which he gave to the Museum's management, in the Museum archives.

8 Research was led by Ante Piteša, a senior curator at the Archaeological Museum; the report was submitted for publication in the Croatian archaeological almanac, Hrvatski arheološki godišnjak 5/2008. Geophysical surveys preceded the archaeological research: Skelac 2008.

9 Piplović 1976, p. 9.

10 B. Penđer recalled that in 1990 he went to obtain these finds at the National Museum in Belgrade, where they were conserved by Đorđina Stojanović-Gabričević. The materials owned by the Archaeological Museum in Split were found in the National Museum's cabinets after her death. A. Stojković on behalf of the National Museum and Penđer on behalf of the Archaeological Museum signed, on 2 October 1990, a deed certifying the handover of this material. Evidence of this in the Archaeological Museum in Split can be found in the receiving log and the register under ref. no. 112-90-561, and in the report on Penđer's work for October 1990. Nowhere is it indicated that this is material from Split's Lora, rather materials from Salona owned by the Archaeological Museum in Split and materials from Salona in 1969 and 1970 are referenced.

11 A sheet of paper with Cambj's handwriting on one side was preserved in the boxes containing the materials, which was not recorded in the protocol register. Here is a transcript: Federal Cultural Monument Protection Institute - Belgrade 28 Adia. 1965 - 6.

- 1) Two star-shaped bronze items (mounts).
- 2) Silver ring with glass gem in gold frame - casing. Sitting figure engraved into elliptical gem.
- 3) Ring with gem. Gem fastened by mount.
- 4) Ring with gem. Fragmented, made of iron. Gem is dark-green, elliptical with engraved striding figure and flower on stem.
- 5) Silver pin/small spoon, 9.5 long. No tip.
- 6) Small bronze receptacle - cylindrical shape. Height 4.1, diameter 3.6 cm.
- 7) Formless burnt mass, melted: remains of bone, fabric and iron ring with gem.
- 8) Remains of formless piece of rust.

All items are framed except those listed under numbers 6 and 8 - next to which there is an arrow tied with rounded ?.

U sjeverozapadnom dijelu Splita, na predjelima Lora i Poljud, otkrivene su najveće rimskodobne nekropole.¹³ Cambj nekropolu u Lori datira od 2. pol. 1. st. do ranog 3. st. po. Kr.¹⁴ Nekropola tada nije bila stručno valorizirana na temelju obradbe prikupljenog, odnosno sačuvanog inventara, pa je jedini oslonac za dataciju bila činjenica da je riječ uglavnom o paljevinskim grobovima s prilozima.¹⁵

Nikolanci skupni nalaz urni i grobnih priloga uništenog osuarija na Poljudu 1953. datira u kraj 1. st. i početak 2. st. po. Kr.¹⁶

Cambj je ukazao na značajke nekropole u Lori s pretežno paljevinskim grobovima s urnama, te dva zidana groba za inhumacije, s nesustavnim ukapanjem, na što upućuje nedostatak grobnih parcela, grobišne arhitekture, nadgrobnih spomenika, natpisa.¹⁷ Jedino natpis Gaja Orhivija Amempta, ugrađen u južni zid samostanske crkve u Poljudu, u blizini nekropole u Lori, udaljen od nje kojih tristo metara, Cambj drži mogućim pokazateljem značajnije arhitekture sepulkralnog karaktera na grobišnoj parceli u Lori, odnosno Poljudu.¹⁸

Ovdje ćemo obraditi prikupljeni i sačuvani materijal za koji pouzdano znamo da potječe iz splitske nekropole u Lori. Rad je koncipiran na sljedeći način. Grobovi su enumerirani kao u Popisu nalaza i evaluirani u odnosu na relevantne priloge i okolnosti nalaza, a svi prilozi su katalogizirani. Kataloški brojevi predmeta odgovaraju brojevima na tablama. Ako se u bilješkama u tekstu ne donosi podatak o predmetu precizniji od onog navedenog u analogijama uz određeni kataloški broj grobnog priloga, rabi se samo kratica prezimena i godina objave. Nakon teksta o svakom grobu slijedi katalog priloga tog groba. Kataloška čestica počinje nazivom i datacijom grobne cjeline, slijede kataloški brojevi s nazivom, inventarnim brojem, materijalom / opisom, dimenzijama, objavama, analogijama te datacijom predmeta. Ako je neka od kategorija iz bilo kojeg razloga nepoznata, u katalogu je preskočena.

Grob 1, urnu 1¹⁹ (T. 1, sl. 1-11) možemo datirati u 2. polovicu 1. st., možda u zadnju četvrtinu 1. st., u vrijeme kada bojano staklo puhanu u kalup ustupa mjesto bezbojnom slobodno puhanom staklu. Velike staklenke (br. 1, sl. 1) rabile su se manner based on materials and find sites. Thus, the finds from Lora in 1965, like those published by Nikolanci in 1953, were once more “discovered”, and after the completed Museum inventory revision, they were conserved and sketched.¹²

The largest Roman-era necropolises in Split were ascertained in the city’s north-west, at the Lora and Poljud sections.¹³ Cambj dated the necropolis in Lora from the latter half of the first to the early third centuries AD.¹⁴ At the time, this necropolis had not undergone expert evaluation based on analysis of all gathered and preserved goods, so the only basis for dating was the fact that it consisted of incineration graves with the accompanying goods.¹⁵

Nikolanci dated the group find of urns and grave goods from the destroyed ossuary at Poljud, discovered in 1953, from the end of the first to the early second centuries AD.¹⁶

Cambj described the features of the necropolis in Lora, discovered in 1965, with mainly urn burials, and two walled graves for inhumation, with non-systematic burials, which is indicated by the lack of grave plots, sepulchral architecture, gravestones and inscriptions.¹⁷ Only the inscription of Gaius Orchivius Amemptus is built into the southern wall of the monastery church in Poljud, near Lora, approximately three hundred meters from it, is held as a possible indicator of sepulchral architecture at the grave plots in Lora and Poljud.¹⁸

All gathered and preserved materials known for certain to come from the Split necropolis in Lora are analyzed in this work. It has been conceived in the manner herein described. The graves are numbered as in the Inventory of Finds and evaluated with regard to the relevant goods and find circumstances, and all goods are catalogued. The item catalogue numbers correspond to the numbers on the plates. Insofar as the notes in the text do not contain more precise data on the item than that specified in the analogies accompanying a given catalogue number of grave good, only the abbreviated surname and the publication year are used. The text on each grave is followed by a catalogue of the goods in that grave. The catalogue unit begins with the name and dating of the grave unit, followed by the catalogue numbers with designation, inventory number, material/description, dimensions, publications, analogies, and dating of the items. Inasmuch as any of these categories is unknown for any reason whatsoever, it is passed over in the catalogue.

ponajprije u kućanstvu kao spremnici, a na zapadu Carstva obično ih se nalazi u njihovoj sekundarnoj uporabi, kao urne. Traju s kultom incineracije, a tijekom 3. st. postupno nestaju na grobljima, što svjedoči o gubitku veze s njihovom funeralnom namjenom, no još se rabe za pohranu u kućanstvima. Globularne su *olla*e najrasprostranjenije u zapadnim dijelovima Carstva. Počinju se proizvoditi u Tiberijevo, odnosno Klaudijevo doba (Magdalensberg i Augusta Raurica). Proizvode se u većem broju radionica bez očitih formalnih modifikacija.²⁰ Ako nije proizvod neke od dalmatinskih radionica, kao i urne u ostalim grobovima, vjerojatno je uvezena iz (sjeverne) Italije.

U staklenoj urni je, među ostalim, priložen grozdoliki balzamarij (br. 3, sl. 3), jedini takav balzamarij na području rimske provincije Dalmacije s paralelama iz Pompeja i Akvileje.²¹ Tip se datira u 2. pol. 1. st. po. Kr. Nije utvrđena radionica tog tipa balzamarija,²² no balzamarij tipa amforiska (br. 4, sl. 4) i balzamarij koničnog tijela (br. 5, sl. 5), kao i urna u kojoj su nađeni, možda su sjevernoitalski proizvodi, a jantarno prstenje (br. 7-9) po svojoj prilici akvilejski. Zanimljiv je balzamarij s ručicama, koji stoga i nazivamo balzamarij tipa amforiska iz ovoga groba (br. 4, sl. 4).²³ Takav oblik nije nepoznat, ali nije ni čest. Uglavnom su poznati slični nalazi od bojenoga i prirodnog stakla, prozirnoga i neprozirnoga, datirani u 1. st. po. Kr., odnosno od sredine 1. do sredine 2. st. po. Kr.²⁴ Blisku analogiju splitskom balzamariju nalazimo u Scupiju u grobu 137, gdje je uz ostale priloge, od kojih ističemo par datuljastih balzamarija, nađen i aribal od prozirnoga modričastog stakla tankih stijenki. Grob je datiran u razdoblje od Domicijana do početka vladavine Hadrijana.²⁵ Takvi su balzamariji zapadni, vjerojatno sjevernoitalski proizvod.²⁶

Balzamariji koničnog tijela (br. 5, sl. 5)²⁷ dobro su zastupljen oblik balzamarija na Zapadu i na Mediteranu od 2. pol. 1. st. pa sve do u 3. st. po. Kr. Balzamarijima tog tipa naglašen je stisnut prijelaz

Grave 1, urn 1¹⁹ (P. 1, fig. 1-11) can be dated to the latter half of the first century, possibly to the last quarter of that century, at a time when tinted glass blown into a mould gave way to free-blown colourless glass. Large glass jars (no. 1, fig. 1) were primarily used in households for storage, while in the western part of the Empire they are normally found in their secondary use as urns. They endured together with the cult of cremation, and gradually disappeared from cemeteries during the third century, to which the loss of their funerary function testifies. However, their use for household storage remained. Globular *olla*e were the most widespread in the western parts of the Empire. They began to be manufactured during the Tiberian-Claudian era (Magdalensberg and Augusta Raurica). They were produced in several workshops with no apparent formal modifications.²⁰ Insofar as it is not a product of one of the Dalmatian workshops, like the urns in the remaining graves, it was probably imported from (northern) Italy.

The glass urn contained, among other things, a raceme-shaped balsamarium (no. 3, fig. 3), the only such balsamarium in the territory of the Roman province of Dalmatia, with parallels from Pompeii and Aquileia.²¹ The type is dated to the latter half of the first century AD. The workshop for this balsamarium type has not been determined,²² but the amphoriskos-type balsamarium (no. 4, fig. 4) and the conical balsamarium (no. 5, fig. 5), like the urn in which they were found, may be Northern Italic products, while the amber rings (no. 8-10, fig 7-9) are likely Aquileian. The balsamarium with handles, which is called an amphoriskos-type balsamarium, from this grave (no. 4, fig. 4) is fascinating.²³ This form is not entirely unknown, but neither is it frequent. Generally similar finds made of tinted and natural glass, transparent and opaque, are known, dated to the first century AD or, more precisely, from the mid-first to the mid-second century.²⁴ A close analogy to the Split balsamarium was found in Scupi, in grave 137, where together with the remaining goods, notably a pair of date-shaped balsamaria, it was found with an aryballos made of transparent bluish glass with iz maloga koničnog tijela u dugi vrat, a zaravnjena do blago konkavna dna jamče im stabilnost. Vjerojatno je italski import. Taj tip balzamarija prevladava u Lori.

Na jadranskoj obali rimske provincije Dalmacije nađeno je mnogo jantarnih predmeta uglavnom u grobovima.²⁸ Ishodište tih jantarnih izrađevina po svoj je prilici Akvileja,²⁹ a ako taj grad i nije imao monopol nad jantarnim izrađevinama, svakako je bio glavno proizvodno središte jantara (i onog nađenog na istočnoj jadranskoj obali).³⁰

Prsten s figurom erota (br. 8, sl. 7) blizak je prstenju sa Zapadne nekropole u Saloni³¹ i prstenu iz Argirunta (Starigrada).³² Eroti su čest ures jantarnog prstenja, a ovdje posebno izdvajamo skupinu s ležećim ili usnulim erotima.³³

Prsten s figurom lavice ili pantere (br. 9, sl. 8) blizak je prstenju iz salonitanske Zapadne nekropole s rebrastim obručima i prikazom životinja na kruni, i to prikazom psa.³⁴ Psi su čest ures jantarnog prstenja, a poznata su samo tri prstena s likovima lava, te dva s panterama.³⁵

Glatki prsten (br. 10, sl. 9) analogan je prstenju sa Zapadne nekropole u Saloni iz 1. i 2. st. po. Kr.³⁶ Poznato je dosta takvog prstenja.³⁷ thin walls. The grave has been dated to the period from the reign of Domitian to the commencement of Hadrian's reign.²⁵ Such balsamaria are western, probably northern Italic products.²⁶

Conical balsamaria (no. 5, fig. 5)²⁷ were rather common form of balsamarium in the West and the Mediterranean from the latter half of the first into the third centuries AD. Balsamaria of this type are characterized by the prominently pressed transition from the small conical body into the long neck, while the flattened to gently concave base guaranteed their stability. They are probably Italic imports. This balsamarium type predominates in Lora.

Many amber items have been found on the Adriatic coast of the Roman province of Dalmatia, mostly in graves.²⁸ These amber products in all likelihood originated in Aquileia,²⁹ and even though the latter did not hold a monopoly on amber goods, it certainly was the principal production centre for amber (even of that found on the eastern Adriatic seaboard).³⁰

The ring bearing a figure of the Eros (no. 8, fig. 7) is akin to the ring from the Western Necropolis in Salona³¹ and the ring from Argiruntum (Starigrad).³² Erotes are a frequent ornament on amber rings, and here they are categorized in the group of Erotes in repose or sleeping.³³

The ring bearing the figure of a lioness or panther (no. 9, fig. 8) is similar to the rings from Salona's Western Necropolis with ribbed bands and portrayals of animals on the head, although a dog in this case.³⁴ Dogs are a common ornament on amber rings, while there are only three known rings with lion figures, and two with panthers.³⁵

The smooth ring (no. 10, fig. 9) is analogous to the rings from the Western Necropolis in Salona dated to the first and second centuries AD.³⁶ A considerable number of such rings are known.³⁷

38 In the Inventory of Finds for grave 2, urn 2, three items are listed next to grave 2: oil-lamp (next to grave 2), fragments of a wooden box and bronze fragments. The date is 23 February 1965. A question mark (?) is written in pencil in the List next to the notation of the oil lamp by grave 2. The Inventory does not mention the urn; it does, however, mention the box and bags filled with material. The urn is not there. The fragments of bronze are not catalogued here.

Grob 5, urna 3⁴⁰ (T. 3, sl. 12-15) sadrži koštane igle. Ukosnice velikih dimenzija (br. 1, 2, sl. 12, 13) s glavom i vrhom najčešće odvojenim od tijela horizontalnim dubljim žljebovima na koje se nastavljaju kuglasto-gumbasti uresi lansirane su u modu zajedno s kompliciranim frizurama flavijevskog doba, a karakteristične su i za Trajanovo i Hadrijanovo doba. Najsličnija im je igla iz Keszthelya kojoj se horizontalna rebra nalaze nešto niže na tijelu ispod kugle s gumastim uresom.⁴¹ Iгла s glavom u obliku ruke s kuglastim predmetom, jabukom ili šiškom (br. 3, sl. 14), vezuje se uz ikonografiju istočnjačkog, Sabazijeva i Kibelina kulta i apotropejski je predmet. Najsličnije splitskoj su ptujaska igla iz G 649, datiranog u flavijevsko doba,⁴² te salonitanska.⁴³ Kozmetičke, odnosno medicinske lopatice (br. 4, sl. 15) kojima su se vadile, miješale i nanosile kozmetičke, odnosno medicinske supstancije, široko su rasprostranjen dugotrajan oblik, nepromijenjen za trajanja Carstva. Valja imati na umu da tipološki srodne lopatice i igle mogu biti veoma široko datirane, stoga je, u odnosu na tipološke analogije, okolnost nalaza u paljevinskom grobu značajniji podatak.

Grave 5, urn 3⁴⁰ (P. 3, fig. 12-15) contained a bone pin. Large hairpins (no. 1, 2, fig. 12, 13) with head and tip separated from the body by deep horizontal grooves that extend into spherical/button-shaped ornaments became fashionable together with the complicated hairstyles of the Flavian era, and they were characteristic of the Trajanic and Hadrianic periods as well. The most similar to it is the pin from Keszthely, on which the horizontal ribs are somewhat lower on the body below the sphere with button-like ornament.⁴¹ The pin with head in the form of a hand holding a globe, apple or gall-nut (no. 3, fig. 14) is associated with the iconography of the Oriental cult of Sabazios or Cybele, and it is an apotropaic article. The most similar to this pin from Split are the Ptuj pin from G 649, dated to the Flavian period,⁴² and one from Salona.⁴³ The cosmetic or medicinal spoons (no. 4, fig. 15) used to remove, mix and apply cosmetics or medicinal substances, were a widespread and long-lasting form and remained unchanged for the duration of the Empire. It should be borne in mind that typologically similar spoons and pins may be very broadly dated, so among the typological analogies, the most important aspect is the fact that it was found in an incineration grave.

potječe iz sredine 1. st., o čemu svjedoči nalaz iz Valkenburga. Dugotrajan su i široko rasprostranjen oblik za pohranu i transport, a uobičajene su od 2. pol. 1. st. i u 2. st. po. Kr.⁴⁵ G6 možemo prema staklu datirati u razdoblje od 2. pol. 1. st. do 2. st. po. Kr., uz napomenu da keramičku lucernu (br. 5, sl. 19) iz istog groba, vjerojatno sjevernoitalski proizvod, datiramo u 2. st. po. Kr. Firma-svjetiljke s otvorenim kanalom možda se od kraja 1. st. po. Kr. počinju proizvoditi u sjevernoj Italiji, gdje se proizvode i u 3. st. po. Kr.; degenerirani primjerci u provincijama se proizvode u 4. st., no najuobičajenije su u 2. st.⁴⁶ U sjevernoitalskom su području sa sjedištem u Modeni proizvođene za izvoz. Keramičar Sextus potpisan je na splitskoj (br. 5, sl. 19) kao i na akvilejskoj lucerni SEXTVS/F. Njegova je, vjerojatno sjevernoitalska, radionica bila aktivna tijekom 2. st. po. Kr.⁴⁷ testify, while the earliest cylindrical bottle dates to the mid-first century, to which a find from Valkenburg testifies. They were enduring and widespread forms for storage and transport, and common from the latter half of the first to the second centuries AD.⁴⁵ Based on the glass, G6 can be dated from the latter half of the first century to the second centuries AD, although it should be noted that the ceramic oil-lamp (no. 5, fig. 19) from the same grave, probably a North Italic product, has been dated to the second century. The Firmalampen type with open channel were possibly produced from the end of the first century in Northern Italy, where they were made into the third century AD, while cruder examples were made in the provinces during the fourth century, but they were most common in the second century.⁴⁶ They were manufactured for expert in the northern Italic territory centred around Modena. The ceramicist Sextus is signed on the Split (no. 5, fig. 19) and the Aquileia oil-lamp: SEXTVS/F. His probably northern Italic workshop was active during the second century AD.⁴⁷

Grob 7, urnu 5⁴⁸ (T. 5, sl. 21) možemo datirati prema urni (br. 1, sl. 21), istog tipa kao G1.1, u 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st., ili prema keramičkom - sigillata B - tanjuru (br. 2), što se datira 70. - 150. g.,⁴⁹ odnosno u 2. pol. 1. st. - 1. pol. 2. st. Podrijetlo ovoga vrlo proširenog tipa posuđa je zapadna maloazijska obala. U flavijevsko i trajanovsko doba sigillata B2 osvojila je dio tržišta kojim je prethodno dominirala aretinska keramika na Kreti, u zapadnoj Grčkoj, duž jadranskih obala i u južnoj Italiji, a od kraja 1. st. i na Cipru.

Prsten (br. 3) možemo, s obzirom na dimenzije glave do samog ruba obruča, pripisati tipu 2d prema Guiraud, kakvi se javljaju u 2. trećini 1. st. i traju do početka 4. st. po. Kr.⁵⁰

Grave 7, urn 5⁴⁸ (P. 5, fig. 21) can be dated, given the urn (no. 1, fig. 21) of the same type as G1.1, from the latter half of the first to the second centuries, or given the ceramic - sigillata B - plate (no. 2), which is dated to 70-150 period⁴⁹ in the latter half of the first and first half of the second centuries. The origin of this very widespread type is the western coast of Asia Minor. During the Flavian and Trajanic periods, sigillata B2 took over that part of the market formerly dominated by Aretine pottery on Crete, in Western Greece, all along the Adriatic coast, in Southern Italy and, from the end of the first century, on Cyprus.

The ring (no. 3), with regard to the dimensions of the head to the very edge of the band, can be attributed to type 2d according to Guiraud, which appeared in the second third of the first century and endured until the beginning of the fourth century AD.⁵⁰

48 U Popisu nalaza ne spominje se urna; popisani su fragmenti keramičke zdjele i brončana igla s raširenom glavom, koja je i nacrtana. Nema datacije nalaza. Osim urne, nisu opisani, odnosno popisani ni željezni ulomci. Datacija i drugi podatci preuzeti su ovdje s vrećica u kojima su se čuvali. Datum nalaza je 24. veljače 1965.: željezo je nađeno izvan staklenke.

49 Hayes 1985.

50 Guiraud 1989.

48 The Inventory of Finds does not mention an urn; fragments of a ceramic bowl and bronze pin with expanded head, also sketched, are listed. There is no dating of the finds. The iron fragments, like the urn, are neither listed nor described. Dating and other data are taken from the small sack in which they were held. The date of the find is 24 February 1965: the iron was found outside of the glass jar.

Sonde (br. 4) čest su i brojan nalaz u civilnim i vojnim naseljima. Osim u medicini, kao skarifikatori, rabile su se u kozmetici te za održavanje higijene ušiju; slikarima su služile za spravljanje boja, a pisarima za spravljanje tinte.⁵¹ Riječ je o dugotrajnom i široko rasprostranjenom rimskom obliku pa su za dataciju splitske sonde okolnosti nalaza u paljevinskom grobu značajnije od tipoloških analogija.

Curettes (no. 4) are frequent and numerous finds in civilian and military settlements. Besides their use in medicine as scarificators, they were also used in cosmetics, and for ear hygiene, and by painters to prepare paints and by scribes for ink.⁵¹ This was long-lasting and widespread Roman form, so in the case of the Split curettes dating relies more on the circumstances of the find in an incineration grave than on any typological analogies.

Grob 8, urna 6⁵² (T. 6, sl. 22-28) staklom se datira u razdoblje od 2. pol. 1. st. do 2. st. po. Kr. Urna (br. 1, sl. 22) istog je tipa kao i ona u G1.1. Balzamarij kampaniformnog tijela (br. 2, sl. 23) ima konkavnu stijenku tijela, za razliku od ravne ili blago konveksne stijenke tijela koničnih balzamarija. Taj je tip balzamarija čest, i od kraja 1. st. po. Kr. proširen po cijelom Rimskom Carstvu, a na istočnom Mediteranu održao se do 3. st. Vjerojatno je italski import. Koštani prilozi iz groba (br. 3-7, sl. 24-26) pripadaju dugotrajnim i široko rasprostranjenim rimskim oblicima i zajedno s jantarnim prstenom (br. 8) svjedoče o ženskom ukopu. Žličasta sonda (br. 3, sl. 24) pripada predmetima široke primjene, čestim nalazima u civilnim i vojnim naseljima,⁵³ kao i kozmetičke, odnosno medicinske lopatice (br. 4, sl. 25) za miješanje, vađenje i nanošenje preparata.⁵⁴ Igle s pravokutnom rupicom (br. 5, sl. 26) rabljene su za šivanje debljim nitima i kožnom vrpcom, odnosno za pletenje. Tzv. šila (br. 6, 7, sl. 27, 28) ili igle s dva naoštrena vrha možda su služile kao igle ukosnice za češljanje i pridržavanje kose ili kao kozmetičke igle za nanošenje boja na obrve, trepavice i kapke. Počinju se proizvoditi u 1. st., karakteristične su za 2. i 3. st.⁵⁵

Grave 8, urn 6⁵² (P. 6, fig. 22-28) has been dated from the latter half of the first century to the second century AD based on the glass. The urn (no. 1, fig. 22) is of the same type as that in G1.1. The campaniform balsamarium (no. 2, fig. 23) has concave walls, as opposed to the flat or slightly convex walls of the conical balsamaria. This balsamarium type is frequent, and from the end of the first century AD it spread throughout the Roman Empire, and endured in the Eastern Mediterranean until to the third century. It is probably an Italic import. The bone goods from the grave (no. 3-7, fig. 24-26) are long-term and widespread Roman forms and together with the amber ring (no. 8), they indicate a woman's burial. The spoon-shaped curette (no. 3, fig. 24) is an item of wide use, often found in civilian and military settlements,⁵³ like cosmetic or medicinal spoons (no. 4, fig. 25) for mixing, removing and applying solutions.⁵⁴ Pins with rectangular holes (no. 5, fig. 26) were used for sewing thicker thread and leather straps, and for knitting. The so-called awls (no. 6, 7, fig. 27, 28), or pins with two sharpened points, may have been used as pins for combing and holding hair, or as cosmetic pins for applying shadow to eyebrows, eyelashes and eyelids. They began to be produced in the first century, and are characteristic of the second and third centuries.⁵⁵

Carstva, iznimno su česte u srednjoj i sjevernoj Italiji; splitska je vjerojatno italska⁵⁷ iz (2. pol.) 1. st. do početka 2. st. po. Kr.

Grob 9 možemo datirati od 2. pol. 1. do (1. pol.) 2. st. po. Kr. Tu dataciju potvrđuje i nalaz dviju keramičkih lucerni. Jedna (br. 4, sl. 32) je s natpisom lončara PROCLI kao na akvilejskoj lucerni; drugdje je potpisan kao PROCVLI. Ta je radionica aktivna u sjevernoj Italiji od početka 2. st. po. Kr.⁵⁸ Druga je lucerna (br. 5, sl. 33) iz sjevernoitalske ili dalmatinske radionice FORTIS, iz razdoblja od kraja 1. do 1. pol. 2. st. po. Kr. FORTIS, radionica lončara L. Emilija Fortisa, najveća italska radionica firma-svjetiljaka, lokalizirana je u Savignanu kraj Modene. Harris drži da je radionica Fortis postojala i u Dalmaciji.⁵⁹ Fragmentirani željezni prsten s oštećenom gemom s prikazom lava (br. 6, sl. 34) ne ukazuje na precizniju dataciju unutar carskog razdoblja. Prikazi lava veoma su česti na salonitanskim carskim gemama, često s astralnim simbolima.⁶⁰

Inv. br. AMS-38492

Materijal / opis: nepravilna zdjela slijepljena od nekoliko ulomaka prozirnog stakla zelenkaste nijanse, prema van svijenog vrpčastog oboda; stoji na nepravilnoj prstenastoj nozi; na konkavnom dnu je trag metalnog držača.

Dimenzije: pr. 14,2 cm, pr. dna 4,9 X 5,4 cm, vis. 6,2 cm.

Augustan-Tiberian era. Deep bowls, like the one from Split, have been confirmed in the Empire's west, particularly common in central and northern Italy; the one from Split is probably Italic⁵⁷ from the (latter half) of the first century to the beginning of the second century AD.

Grave 9 can be dated from the latter half of the first to the (first half of the) second centuries AD. This dating is confirmed by the find of two ceramic oil-lamps. One (no. 4, fig. 32) bears the potter's inscription PROCLI as on the Aquileian oil-lamp; elsewhere it is written as PROCVLI. This workshop was active in Northern Italy as of the onset of the second century AD.⁵⁸ The second oil-lamp (no. 5, fig. 33) is from the Northern Italic or Dalmatian FORTIS workshop from the end of the first to the first half of the second centuries AD. The Fortis workshop, the largest Italic workshop of Firmalampen made by the potter L. Aemilius Fortis, its location has been ascertained in Savignano near Modena. Harris asserted that a Fortis workshop also existed in Dalmatia.⁵⁹ The fragmented iron ring with damaged gem bearing a portrayal of a lion (no. 6, fig. 34) does not point to any more precise dating within the Empire period. Lion portrayals were very common on imperial salon gems, often with astral symbols.⁶⁰

1. Urn (fig. 29)

Inv. no. AMS-38425

Material/description: urn made of transparent greenish glass, concave base, ovoid body, short neck, outwardly drawn horizontal rim with edge bent down toward neck.

Dimensions: ht. 22.6 cm, rim dia. 19.4 cm, body dia. 25.6 cm.

Analogies: see G1.1.

Dating: 2nd half of 1st- 2nd cent. AD.

2. Balsamarium (fig. 30)

Inv. no. AMS-38506

Material/description: conical balsamarium, made of transparent glass with greenish hue, small conical body, pressed transition into high neck which ends in horizontally drawn rim toward inwardly bend edge, standing on concave base.

Dimensions: ht. 9.9 cm, body dia. 3.2 cm, rim dia. 2.85 cm.

Analogies: see G1.5.

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent.

Kr.⁶² Dijelovi škrinjice sačuvani su u G2 u Lori. Keramičkih je par ulomaka amfora (br. 2, 3), te jedna lucerna (br. 1, sl. 35). Volutne lucerne trokutastog nosa potječu iz Italije 1. četvrtine 1. st. Italski tip Loeschcke IB proizvodi se od Tiberijeva doba do kraja 1. st., a u Panoniji se proizvodnja nastavlja kroz cijelo 2. st. Tip IC proizvodi se od 2. pol. 1. st. do treće četvrtine 2. st., a u Panoniji do 1. pol. 3. st. Često svjetiljke pokazuju značajke tipa Loeschcke I B i C s varijantama. Takva je i splitska lucerna, prema Istenič Loeschcke tip I (B)/C 1.⁶³ Vjerojatno je sjevernoitalski proizvod, uz napomenu da su uobičajene na jadranskom području i sjeverno od Alpa, gdje su najbrojnije u trajansko-antoninsko doba.

Grob 10, T. 8, 9, sl. 35, 36

Datacija: 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

1. Lucerna (sl. 35)
Inv. br. AMS-42875
Materijal / opis: lucerna s volutama sa strana trokutastog nosa i prikazom golog mladića, Amora, s vrećastim predmetom u desnoj ruci; na konkavnom disku je uz njegovu desnu nogu otvor za ulje, a ispod oštećene lijeve otvor za zrak, disk je od ramena odvojen jednim dubljim žlijebom te dvama plićim koncentričnim urezima, stajaća ploha je ravna i odvojena od stijenke tijela jednim žlijebom, keramika je svjetlosmeđe boje sa smeđim premazom; nedostaje ručica i dio nosa.
Dimenzije: šir. 7,3 cm, vis. 3,2 cm, sačuvana duž. 10,2 cm.
Analogije: Mardešić 2006, Mardešić 2002b, str. 352; Istenič 2000, str. 160-164, 8.6.2.1, tip Loeschcke I (B)/C 2; Goethert 1997; Loeschcke 1919, tip IB i IC, profil ramena IIIa.

7. Inv. no. AMS-38508
bronze pin between two iron elements with round cross-section and elements of rectangular cross-section;
Dimensions: l. 16.1 cm, dia. 1.6 cm.

Grave 10,⁶¹ P. 8, 9, fig. 35, 36 contains among its metal items parts of a chain (no. 4-14), links and rings, a small handle (no. 15), a lock (no. 16, fig. 36), and nails (no. 17-26), probably parts of a small chest. Analogous metal parts of what was probably a wooden chest for cosmetics from a woman's incineration grave in Arco, from the San Giorgio site, were dated to the mid-first century AD based on the remaining goods.⁶² Parts of a wooden chest were preserved in G2 in Lora. There were two ceramic amphora pieces (no. 2, 3) and one oil-lamp (no. 1, fig. 35). Volute oil-lamps with triangular nozzles originated in Italy in the first quarter of the first century. The Italic Loeschcke IB type was produced from the Tiberian era to the end of the first century, while in Pannonia production continued throughout the second century. Type IC was produced from the latter half of the first century to the third quarter of the second century, and to the first half of the third century in Pannonia. Often oil-lamps exhibit the features of type I B and C with variants. This is the case with the Split oil-lamp, Loeschcke type I (B)/C 1 according to Istenič.⁶³ It is probably a north Italic product, although it should be noted that they were customary in the Adriatic seaboard and north of the Alps, where they were most common in the Trajanic-Antonine period.

Grave 10, P. 8, 9, fig. 35, 36

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent. AD.

1. Oil-lamp (fig. 35)
Inv. no. AMS-42875
Material/description: oil-lamp with volutes on sides of triangular nozzle and portrayal of nude young man, Amor, with a sack-like item in his left hand; the pouring hole is on the concave discus next to his right leg, while under the damaged left leg there is an air hole; the discus is separated at the shoulder by a deeper groove, and two shallower concentric incisions; the standing surface is flat and separated from the walls of the body by a single groove, the ceramic is beige with brown slip; handle and part of nozzle missing.
Dimensions: wid. 7.3 cm, ht. 3.2 cm, preserved l. 10.2 cm.

Grob 15⁶⁹ (T. 11-13, sl. 40-50) može se prema staklenim nalazima datirati u razdoblje 2. pol. 1. st. - početak 3. st. po. Kr., ili nešto kasnije prema novcu br. 48,⁷⁰ uz napomenu da je novac br. 49, sl. 50⁷¹ slučajno dospio među grobne nalaze u drugoj polovici 4. st. ili kasnije.

Mali balzamariji sferičnoga tijela (br. 21, sl. 42) čest su nalaz u romaniziranim područjima 1. st. po. Kr.; tip s dugim vratom je, čini se, regionalna varijanta, što dobro potvrđuju nalazi iz susjednih zona kantona Ticino. Splitski je balzamarij vjerojatno sjevernoitalskog podrijetla, no s obzirom na svijeni obod mogao bi biti i istočni proizvod.⁷²

Primjerke što potječu iz zadarskih nekropola slične splitskoj bočici jajolikog tijela (br. 22, sl. 43) Ravagnan drži proizvodima zapadnih, rajnskih radionica i datira ih u početak 3. st. Prema analognim zapadnim i istočnim primjercima na koje se autorica poziva, srodne boce mogu se datirati od 1. do 3. st., uz napomenu da sve imaju drugačije, uglavnom izrazito konkavno, odnosno uvučeno konično dno. Nismo sigurni u tip splitske posude jer nije sačuvan njezin vrat, no ističemo da su joj, oblikom tijela, bojom stakla i izvedbom dna, najbliži zadarski primjerci, danas u Muranu.⁷³

Rastaljeni balzamariji, ulomci (br. 23-33, sl. 44-48), u slučaju barem djelomično sačuvanih oblika, ukazuju na pripadnost tipu balzamarija koničnog tijela,⁷⁴ dok takvi ostatci balzamarija (br. 35-47) u urni (br. 34, sl. 49), jedinjoj iz Lore sačuvanoj i izloženoj zajedno s ostatcima pokojnika,⁷⁵ uglavnom ukazuju na pripadnost cjevastim balzamarijima 1. i 2. st. po. Kr.⁷⁶ Možda su oni pod br. 37, 41, 43, 45 imali konično tijelo kao onaj pod br. 46.⁷⁷

Grave 15⁶⁹ (P. 11-13, fig. 40-50) can be dated, given the glass finds, from the latter half of the first to the beginning of the third century AD, or somewhat later given coin no. 48,⁷⁰ with the note that the coin, no. 49, fig. 50,⁷¹ ended up among the grave goods by chance in the latter half of the fourth century or any time later.

Small spherical balsamaria (no. 21, fig. 42) are frequent finds in the Romanized territories of the first century AD; the type with long neck is, it would appear, a regional variant, which is well confirmed by the finds from the neighbouring zone of Canton Ticino. The Split balsamaria is probably northern Italic in origin, but it is possible, given the curved rim, that it may also be an Oriental product.⁷²

The ovoid phial from Split (no. 22, fig. 43), similar to examples from the Ravagnan necropolis in Zadar, are deemed products of western, Rhineland workshops and dated to the beginning of the third century. Based on analogous western and eastern examples cited by the author, similar phials can be dated from the first to third centuries, with the note that all have different, generally very concave or withdrawn conical bases. The type of the Split vessel is uncertain because its neck has not been preserved, but it is worth stressing that in terms of its body shape, the glass colour and the rendering of the base the closest to it are the Zadar examples today hold in Murano.⁷³

The melted balsamaria, fragments (no. 23-33, fig. 44-48), at least in the case of the partially preserved forms, indicate the conical balsamarium type,⁷⁴ while such balsamarium remains (no. 35-47) in the urn (no. 34, fig. 49), the sole example from Lora preserved and exhibited together with the remains of the deceased,⁷⁵ generally indicate the tubular balsamaria of the first and second centuries AD.⁷⁶ It is possible that those under no. 37, 41, 43, 45 had conical bodies like that under no. 46.⁷⁷

69 U Popisu nalaza uz Grob 15 u zagradama je upisano pithos veliki; popisani su predmeti, čini se, svi ovdje u katalogu; neki su naime popisani skupno, pa je nemoguće točno utvrditi nekadašnje stanje, no po svemu sudeći ništa ne nedostaje - u Popisu nalaza naveden je jedan stakleni predmet manje, a spominju se brončani čavli kojih ovdje nema. Datum nalaza je 11. ožujka 1965. Osim toga, u jednoj izloženoj oli bio je papirić s oznakom G 15, s ostatcima pokojnika i spaljenih balzamarija, te novcem i iglom što se ne spominju u Popisu nalaza, osim što se urna spominje uz navedeni keramički poklopac s olle. Te predmete donosimo u katalogu od br. 34 nadalje. U Popisu nalaza ne spominju se ni ovdje katalogizirani prsten s gemom, željezna igla i veliki željezni ulomci.

69 In the Inventory of Finds, 'large pithos' is written next to Grave 15; the listed goods are, it would appear, here in the catalogue; some were listed jointly, so it is impossible to ascertain precisely the former condition, but by all indications nothing is missing - one glass item less is cited in the Inventory of Finds, and bronze nails are mentioned which are not here. The find date is 11 March 1965. Additionally, one exhibited olla contained a piece of paper bearing the designation G 15 with remains of the deceased and a charred balsamarium, and coins and a pin noted mentioned in the Inventory of Finds, except that the urn is mentioned alongside the ceramic lid "from an olla". These items are carried in the catalogue under no. 34 onward. The Inventory of Finds also fails to mention the ring with gem, iron pin and large iron fragments catalogued herein.

70 Ascertained on the basis of the portrayals on the obverse and reverse. Thanks to P. Šeparović for assistance in classification of the coins.

Inv. br. AMS-38486

Materijal / opis: ulomak koničnog tijela balzamarija od prozirnog stakla modričaste nijanse.

Dimenzije: pr. 3,36 cm.

Analogije: vidi G1.5.

Datacija: 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

30. Balsamarium (fig. 48)

Inv. no. AMS-38486

Material/description: fragment of conical body of balsamarium made of transparent bluish glass.

Dimensions: dia. 3.36 cm.

Analogies: see G1.5.

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent. AD.

31. Inv. br. AMS-38487

Materijal / opis: rastaljeno staklo.

Dimenzije: duž. 2 cm.

31. Inv. no. AMS-38487

Material/description: melted glass.

Dimensions: l. 2 cm.

32. Balzamarij

Inv. br. AMS-38488

Materijal / opis: rastaljeni balzamarij koničnoga tijela, od prozirnog stakla modričaste nijanse, malog koničnog tijela sa stisnutim prijelazom u dugi vrat, konkavnog dna, obod nije sačuvan.

Dimenzije: duž. 10,57 cm.

Analogije: vidi G1.5.

Datacija: sredina 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

32. Balsamarium

Inv. no. AMS-38488

Material/description: melted conical balsamarium, made of transparent bluish glass, small conical body with pressed transition into long neck, concave base, rim not preserved.

Dimensions: l. 10.57 cm.

Analogies: see G1.5.

Dating: mid-1st-2nd cent. AD.

33. Balzamarij

Inv. br. AMS-38489

Materijal / opis: rastaljeni balzamarij, od prozirnog stakla modričaste nijanse.

Dimenzije: duž. 5,9 cm.

33. Balsamarium

34. Urna (sl. 49)

Inv. br. G 1853

Materijal / opis: urna od prozirnog zelenkastog stakla, konkavnog dna, ovoidnog tijela, kratkog vrata, horizontalnog oboda izvučenog prema van, s rubom svijenim prema vratu. Dimenzije: vis. 24,2 cm, pr. oboda 19,8 cm, pr. tijela 29,2 cm.

Analogije: vidi G1.1.

Datacija: 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

35. Balzamarij

Inv. br. G 1853/2

Materijal / opis: ulomak vjerojatno cjevastog balzamarija, od gotovo bezbojnog stakla, stisnutog prijelaza u visoki vrat što završava ljevkastim obodom, nedostaje veći dio tijela.

34. Urn (fig. 49)

Inv. no. G 1853

Material/description: urn made of transparent greenish glass, concave base, ovoid body, short neck, outwardly drawn horizontal rim, edge curved toward neck.

Dimensions: ht. 24.2 cm, rim dia. 19.8 cm, body dia. 29.2 cm.

Analogies: see G1.1.

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent. AD.

35. Balsamarium

Inv. no. G 1853/2

Material/description: fragment of probably tubular balsamarium, made of almost colourless glass, pressed transition into high neck ending in funnelled rim, missing most of body.

Dimenzije: pr. tijela 1,7 cm, pr. vrata 1,16 cm, pr. oboda 1,8 cm.
Analogije: Buljević 2002a, 3k3-6; Biaggio Simona 1991, str. 140-148, 8.1.7.; Isings 1957, str. 24, f. 8.

Grob 16⁷⁸ (T. 10, sl. 51) se može, prema nalazu lucerne (br. 1) s pečatom radionice Fortis, kao u G9.5, datirati u razdoblje kraja 1. st. - 1. pol. 2. st. po. Kr.

Grave 16⁷⁸ (P. 10, fig. 51) can, given the oil-lamp find (no. 1) bearing the stamp of the Fortis workshop, as in G9.5, be dated from the end of the first to the first half of the second century AD.

Grob 16, T. 10, sl. 51

Datacija: kraj 1. st. - 1. pol. 2. st. po. Kr.

1. Lucerna (sl. 51)

Inv. br. AMS-41665

Materijal / opis: keramička lucerna, firmalampa, od crvenkaste gline, s pečatom FORTIS upisanim u urezanu kružnicu na dnu; na ramenu su dvije pseudoručice, nedostaje dio glatkog diska s otvorom za ulje, a otvor za zrak je pri dnu otvorenog kanala; na vrhu nosa je otvor za plamen.

Dimenzije: duž. 10,64 cm, šir. 7,37 cm, vis. 3,8 cm.

Analogije: vidi G9.5.

Datacija: kraj 1. st. - 1. pol. 2. st. po. Kr.

G 16.1

Grob 18, urna 8⁷⁹ (T. 14-17, sl. 52-67) sadrži dvadeset i dva staklena predmeta. Uglavnom su to rastaljeni ulomci (br. 4-21) vjerojatno balsamarija gorenih na lomači zajedno s pokojnikom, skupljenih i stavljenih u grob zajedno s drugim ostacima i priložima. Nemaju sačuvane oblike koji bi upućivali na određen tip balsamarija.

Cijela su tri staklena balsamarija. Veliki balsamarij koničnog tijela (br. 1, sl. 52) pripada balsamarijima velikih dimenzija, iznad 10 cm visine, koji su dugotrajan (2. pol. 1. st. - poč. 4. st.) i veoma široko distribuiran proizvod zapadnih, a potom i istočnih radionica. Nalazom potopljenog tereta iz 2. st. u južnoj Francuskoj potvrđena je njihova namjena spremnika parfema.⁸⁰ Biaggio Simona je mišljenja da nedostatak natpisa na dnu nekih balsamarija upućuje na tržište manje kvalitetnih proizvoda, na uporabu surogata dragocjenih istočnjačkih parfema.⁸¹ Splitski je balsamarij, prema ostalim priložima u paljevinskom grobu, vjerojatno italski proizvod iz razdoblja 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.⁸² Srodan mu je drugi balsamarij iz istoga groba (br. 2, sl. 53), koji za razliku od prethodnog, s horizontalnim obodom svijenog ruba, ima ljevkastu obod.⁸³ Balsamarij bikoničnog tijela s ljevkastim obodom blago svijenim prema gore (br. 3, sl. 54) ne možemo datirati preciznije od razdoblja unutar 1. - 2. st. po. Kr.⁸⁴

79 U Popisu nalaza se, osim ovdje katalogiziranih nalaza, spominju duža zakrivljena igla i neodređeni ulomak bronce, kojih ovdje nema. Nema urne. Datum nalaza je 11. ožujka 1965.

Grave 18, urn 8⁷⁹ (P. 14-17, fig. 52-67) contained twenty-two glass items. These are mainly melted fragments (no. 4-21) probably of balsamaria burned on a pyre together with the deceased, subsequently gathered and placed together with other remains and goods in the grave. There are no preserved forms that would indicate a specific balsamarium type.

Three glass balsamaria are whole. The large conical balsamarium (no. 1, fig. 52) belongs to the large-sized balsamaria, over 10 cm high, which were a long-lasting (2nd half of 1st-beginning 4th cent.) and very widely distributed product of the western, and then later eastern, workshops. The discovery of second-century sunken cargo in Southern France confirmed their use as perfume containers.⁸⁰ According to Biaggio Simona, the absence of an inscription on the bases of some balsamaria indicates a market for lower-quality products and the use of substitutes for expensive Oriental perfumes.⁸¹ The Split balsamarium, given the remaining goods in the incineration grave, is probably an Italic product dating from the latter half of the first to the second centuries AD.⁸² The other balsamarium from the same grave (no. 2, fig. 53) is similar to it, although in contrast to the preceding example, with a horizontal, curved edge rim, this one has a funnelled rim.⁸³ The biconical balsamarium with funnelled rim lightly curved upward (no. 3, fig. 54) cannot be dated more precisely than within the first-second centuries AD.⁸⁴

79 The Inventory of Finds, besides the items catalogued here, also mentions the longer bent pin and indeterminate fragment of bronze which are not specified herein. There is no urn. The find date is 11 March 1965.

Ulomak štapića, igle (br. 22, sl. 55) od prozirnoga modrog stakla oko neprozirno bijele jezgre, nalaz je što upućuje na grob pokojnice. Dio je igle okruglog presjeka s listolikom ušicom i zašiljenim vrhom. Takve su igle dužine uglavnom 17-19 cm, promjera 0,3-0,4 cm. S obzirom na mjesto nalaza takvih igala u grobu, uz glavu, ali i druge dijelove tijela pokojnica, te s obzirom na krhkost materijala, pitanje njihove namjene nije razjašnjeno. Možda se radi o dekorativnim ukosnicama ili kozmetičkim aplikatorima.⁸⁵ Ušica im je urešena apliciranom staklenom bijelom niti, što moguće sugerira šivanje kao njihovu namjenu. Možda su stavljane u grob kao obilježje žene, a da nikada nisu bile u praktičnoj primjeni.⁸⁶ Uz dalmatinske primjerke iz Salone⁸⁷ i Asserije, Zadra ili Nina⁸⁸ poznate su igle iz Ticina, Samotrake, Pavije, Taranta, Lipara i Cipra⁸⁹ te iz Akvileje.⁹⁰ Dativaju se u 1. - 2. st. po. Kr. Njihova radionica nije utvrđena.⁹¹

U grobu je nađeno 105 koštanih igala ili štapića sa dva zašiljena vrha (br. 23-128), dužine do 5,8 cm, promjera oko 0,1 cm, možda za igru tipa mikado ili jackstraws, u kojoj igrači naizmjenično nastoje izvući tanki štapić ili slamku bez pomicanja ostalih u hrpi.⁹² Istog su tipa trideset četiri koštane igle (br. 129-162) dužine i do 10 cm, promjera 0,15-0,2 cm, možda rabljene u kozmetičke svrhe,⁹³ kao i koštana ukosnica (br. 163), te češljevi (br. 164-165, sl. 56).⁹⁴ U grobu je nađeno i koštano vreteno s jantarnim utegom (br. 169, sl. 59); dosad je poznato samo jedno, ono iz Salone, iz razdoblja 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.⁹⁵ Uz vreteno u grobu je i jantarna preslica (br. 166-167, sl. 57). Analogne akvilejske simboličke jantarne preslice, prilog u grobovima odraslih žena, datirane su, na temelju drugih priloga, u kraj 1. i 1. pol. 2. st.⁹⁶ Jantarni prsten (br. 175) može se datirati u kraj 1. - 2. st. po. Kr.⁹⁷

Keramička lucerna (br. 190) tako je malih dimenzija da nije imala praktičnu primjenu, nego simbolički obasjava pokojniku put u zagrobnom mračnom svijetu.⁹⁸ Keramičku lucernu s natpisom PROCLI (br. 191, sl. 66), kao u G9.4, datiramo u 2. st. po. Kr. Keramički tanjur (br. 192 i 193) datira se u razdoblje 70./75. - 120. g. po. Kr.⁹⁹

The fragment of a small rod, a pin (no. 22, fig. 55) made of transparent deep blue glass around an opaque white core is a find that indicates the grave of a deceased woman. It is part of a pin with round cross-section and foliate eye-hole and sharpened point. Such pins were generally 17-19 cm long, and 0.3-0.4 cm in diameter. Given the find site of these pins in a grave, next to the head, but also other parts of the deceased woman's body, and the fragility of the material, their use remains unresolved. They may have been decorative hairpins or cosmetics applicators.⁸⁵ Their loop hole is decorated with applied glass by a white thread, which may suggest their use: sewing. It may have been deposited in the grave as a signifier of the woman, without ever being in practical use.⁸⁶ Besides the Dalmatian examples from Salona⁸⁷ and Asseria, Zadar or Nin,⁸⁸ pins are also known from Ticino, Samothrace, Pavia, Taranto, Lipari and Cyprus,⁸⁹ and from Aquileia.⁹⁰ They date to the first/second centuries AD. The workshop making them has not been ascertained.⁹¹

A total of 105 bone pins or sticks (no. 23-128) were found in the grave, each with two sharpened points, up to 5.8 cm long, roughly 0.1 cm in diameter, possibly used for a game like Mikado or Jackstraws, in which the players take turns in attempting to pull out the thin stick or straw without moving those remaining in the stack.⁹² The bone pins (no. 129-162), up to 10 cm long, 0.15-0.2 cm in diameter, are of the same type, but possibly used for cosmetic purposes⁹³ and as hairpins (no. 163), and combs (no. 164-165, fig. 56).⁹⁴ The bone spindle with amber weight (no. 169, fig. 59) thus far has only a single equivalent, the one from Salona, from the latter half of the first to second centuries AD.⁹⁵ Besides the spindle, the grave also contained an amber distaff (no. 166-167, fig. 57). Analogous Aquileian symbolic amber distaffs, goods in the graves of adult women, were dated, based on other goods, from the end of the first to the first half of the second centuries.⁹⁶ The amber ring (no. 175) can be dated to the end of the first to the second centuries AD.⁹⁷

The ceramic oil-lamp (no. 190) is so small that it had no practical use, rather it symbolically illuminated the path of the deceased in the darkness of the afterlife.⁹⁸ The ceramic oil-lamp with the inscription PROCLI (no. 191, fig. 66), as in G9.4, has been dated to the second century AD. The ceramic plate (no. 192 and 193) has been dated to 70/75-120 AD.⁹⁹

Keramička ploska (br. 194, sl. 67) tip je posuđa poznat na zapadnom Mediteranu i na atlantskoj obali, od kraja 1. st. do 2. st. po. Kr.¹⁰⁰

S obzirom na priloge pretpostavljamo ženski ukop u 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

Grob 18, T. 14-17, sl. 52-57

Datacija: 2. pol. 1. st. - 2. st. po. Kr.

1. Balzamarij (sl. 52)

Inv. br. AMS-38513

Materijal / opis: balzamarij koničnog tijela, dugog cilindričnog vrata s horizontalnim obodom, svijenim prema unutra; dno je glatko, blago konkavno, od prozirnog stakla modričasto-zelenkaste nijanse.

Dimenzije: vis. 15 cm, pr. oboda 4,8 cm, pr. tijela 10,3 cm, pr. vrata 3,1-3,5 cm.

Analogije: Fadić 2006, str. 21, f. 2, kat. br. 7-31; Arveiller-Dulong, Nenna 2005, str. 31, bilj. 159, kat. br. 388-397; Fadić 1998, str. 82, kat. br. 46; Bonnet Borel 1997, AV V 123; Rütli 1991, AR 140; Biaggio Simona 1991, str. 149-153, 8.1.9c, T. 25, sl. 69; Goethert-

The ceramic flask (no. 194, fig. 67) is a type of vessel known in the western Mediterranean and the Atlantic seaboard, from the end of the first to the second centuries AD.¹⁰⁰

Given the goods, it is assumed to have been a woman's burial in the latter half of the first or second century AD.

Grave 18, P. 14, 15, 16, 17, fig. 52-57

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent. AD.

1. Balsamarium (fig. 52)

Inv. no. AMS-38513

Material/description: conical balsamarium, long cylindrical neck with horizontal, inwardly bent rim, base smooth, slightly concave, made of bluish-green transparent glass.

Dimensions: ht. 15 cm, rim dia. 4.8 cm, body dia. 10.3 cm, dia. of neck 3.1-3.5 cm.

Analogies: Fadić 2006, p. 21, f. 2, cat. no. 7-31; Arveiller-Dulong, Nenna 2005, p. 31, note 159, cat. no. 388-397; Fadić 1998, p. 82, cat. no. 46; Bonnet Borel 1997, AV V 123; Rütli 1991, AR 140; Biaggio Simona 1991, pp. 149-153, 8.1.9c, P. 25, Fig. 69; Goethert-

¹⁰⁰ Carandini, Tortorella 1981, str. 21 (Ill.c.2); str. 49 (Lamboglia 13, Hayes 147); primjećuje se da se ovim zatvorenim oblicima afričke sigilate A imitiraju keramički oblici proizvedeni u Galiji, odnosno riječ je o obliku proizvođenom i od punske keramike, galske i hispanске sigilate, kao i afričke sigilate C.

¹⁰⁰ Carandini, Tortorella 1981, p. 21 (Ill.c.2); p. 49 (Lamboglia 13, Hayes 147); notable on these closed forms of African terra sigillata A is that they imitate the ceramic forms produced in Gallia, i.e. it is a form produced from Punic ceramic, Gallian and Hispanic sigillata, like African sigillata C as well.

Dimensions: l. 8.65 cm, wid. 7.4 cm, ht. 3.1 cm.

Analogies: see G9.4.

Dating: 2nd cent. AD.

192. Tanjur

Inv. br. AMS-38535

Materijal / opis: ulomak keramičkog tanjura sa zaobljenim obodom svijenim prema van; keramika je svjetlosmeđe do svjetlonarančaste boje s tamnosmeđim premazom; na tri mjesta se, na oštećenom premazu, vidi trag sitnog zupčastog uresa.

Analogije: Hayes 1985, str. 65, f. 63, T. XIV. 13.

Datacija: 70./75. - 120. g. po. Kr.

192. Plate

Inv. no. AMS-38535

Material/description: fragment of ceramic plate with outwardly bent rounded rim, ceramic is beige to light orange with dark brown slip, trace of tiny denticulate ornamentation visible at three places on damaged slip.

Analogies: Hayes 1985, p. 65, f. 63, P. XIV. 13.

Dating: 70/75-120 AD.

193. Tanjur

Inv. br. AMS-38536

Materijal / opis: ulomak keramičkog tanjura sa zaobljenim obodom svijenim prema van, ravnog dna, s niskom prstenastom nogom; keramika je svjetlosmeđe do svjetlonarančaste boje s tamnosmeđim premazom; na jednome mjestu se, na oštećenom premazu, vidi trag sitnog zupčastog uresa; vjerojatno dio istog tanjura kao i ulomak pod br. 192; istočnjačka sigilata B2.

Dimenzije: vis. 3,3 cm.

Analogije: vidi br. 192.

Datacija: 70./75. - 120. g. po. Kr.

193. Plate

Inv. no. AMS-38536

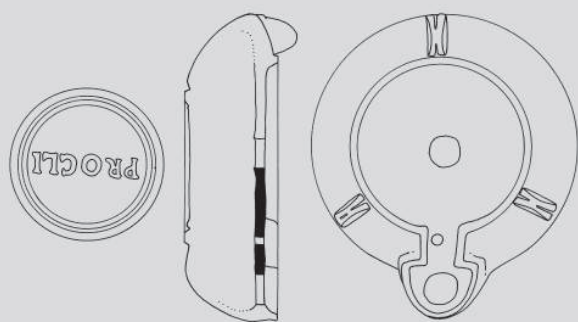

Material/description: fragment of ceramic plate with outwardly bent rounded rim, flat base with low ring-shaped foot, ceramic is beige to light orange with dark brown slip; trace of tiny serrated ornamentation visible at one place on damaged slip, probably part of same place as fragment listed under no. 192, Oriental sigillata B2.

Dimensions: ht. 3.3 cm.

Analogies: see no. 192.

Dating: 70/75-120 AD.

Grave 19, urn 19¹⁰¹ (P. 10) is, given the find of a bone pin with eye-hole, associated with a woman's burial. The grave cannot be more precisely dated, because the pin, which is additionally not whole, is not chronologically sensitive. Given the fact that the Inventory of Finds mentions an urn, this indicates possible dating from the latter half of the first to the second centuries AD.

Grave 19, P. 10

Dating: 2nd half of 1st-2nd cent. AD.

Grave 22¹⁰³ (P. 18, fig. 68) is designated as skeletal in the Inventory of Finds. Given that the Split phial, a product of western workshops, is a good in the grave, no dating prior to the latter half of the third century is likely,¹⁰⁴ otherwise possible from typological standpoint,¹⁰⁵ so it has been dated from the latter half of the third to the fourth centuries AD.

Grave 22, P. 18, fig. 68

Dating: 2nd half of 3rd-4th cent. AD.

1. Balsamarium (fig. 63)

Inv. no. AMS-38516

Material/description: balsamarium made of almost colourless glass, spheroid body with uninterrupted transition to neck which ends in irregular rim with inwardly bent edge, base concave.

Dimensions: ht. 6.7 cm, body: dia. 4.15 cm, rim: dia. 1.85 cm, neck: dia. 1.3 cm.

Analogies: Harter 1999, p. 100, 241-243, 347, f. D16a, cat. no.

¹⁰³ U Popisu nalaza nema datuma, skicirana je staklena bočica i uvedena kao jedini nalaz. Na drugom listu, u naslovu, uz grob 22 upisano je skeletni i kao datum nalaza naveden je 13. ožujka 1965. Ovdje nisu katalogizirani navedeni ulomci staklene bočice.

Materijal / opis: štapičasti koštani ili metalni predmet sa zalijepljenim ulomcima tkanine.

Dimenzije: duž. 4,3 cm.

Grob 25 (B)¹⁰⁸ (T. 19, sl. 70) sadržavao je osim urne označene sa B, koja nije sačuvana, dva minijaturna rastaljena staklena balzamarija (br. 1 i 2), dno keramičke lucerne (br. 4), vjerojatno sjevernoitalske, koju možemo datirati u 2. st. S obzirom na pečat koji čitamo kao lanuarius, pretpostavljamo da je riječ o sjevernoitalskom importu u Split. lanuarius se vezuje uz sjevernoitalsku radionicu aktivnu od 1. pol. 2. st. po. Kr. Proizvodnja srodnih lucerni nastavila se od 2. pol. 2. st. tijekom 3. st. u Panoniji, Donjoj Meziji i Daciji.¹⁰⁹

Material/description: stick-shaped bone or metal item with affixed pieces of fabric.

Dimensions: l. 4.3 cm.

Grave 25 (B)¹⁰⁸ (P. 19, fig. 70) contained, beside an urn designated as 'B' - which has not been preserved, two miniature melted balsamaria (no. 1 and 2), the base of what is probably a northern Italic ceramic oil-lamp (no. 4), which can be dated to the second century. Given the stamp which has been read as lanuarius, it has been assumed that this is a northern Italic import to Split. lanuarius is associated with a northern Italic workshop active from the first half of the second century AD. Production of oil-lamps continued into the latter half of the second century and into the third century in Pannonia, Moesia Inferior and Dacia.¹⁰⁹

110 U Popisu nalaza kao datum nalaza naveden je 11. ožujka 1965. Ovdje nisu katalogizirani u popisu navedeni: željezni ulomci nožića, čavala i dr., ulomci staklene ole. U Popisu se još navode četiri ulomka brončanih igala duž. 3 cm; vjerojatno je riječ o ovdje katalogiziranoj igli.

111 U Popisu nalaza naveden je datum nalaza 12. ožujka 1965.

112 U Popisu nalaza navedeni su datumi 24. veljače i 11. ožujka 1965. Ovdje nisu katalogizirani samo neodređeni ulomci keramike.

110 The Inventary of Finds specifies a find date of 11 March 1965. Here the following items cited in the list are not catalogued: iron fragments of a small knife, nails, etc., fragments of a glass olla. The Inventary also cites three fragments of bronze pins, l. 3 cm; probably the pin catalogued here.

111 The Inventary of Finds specifies a find date of 12 March 1965.

112 The Inventary of Finds specifies the dates 24 February and 11 March 1965. Here only the indeterminate ceramic fragments are not catalogued.

Inv. br. AMS-38467

Materijal / opis: ulomak brončanog prstena s proširenom glavom, s gemom od zelenog jaspisa s urezanim stiliziranom ljudskom figurom u pokretu i cvijetom u pozadini (?)

Dimenzije: zaglavna pločica: šir. 0,74 cm.

Ponovimo: u sjeverozapadnom dijelu Splita, na predjelima Lora i Poljud, nađene su najveće rimskodobne nekropole.¹¹⁴ Nenad Cambj ukazao je na značajke nekropole u Lori s pretežno paljevinskim grobovima s četrdesetak urna, te dva zidana groba za inhumacije; ukopi su obavljani nesustavno, na što upućuje nedostatak grobnih parcela, grobišne arhitekture, nadgrobnih spomenika, natpisa.¹¹⁵ Jedino natpis Gaja Orhivija Amempta ugrađen u južni zid samostanske crkve u Poljudu, u blizini nekropole u Lori, Cambj drži mogućim pokazateljem značajnije arhitekture sepulkralnoga karaktera na grobišnoj

1. Ring (fig. 76)

Inv. no. AMS-38467

Material/description: fragment of bronze ring with expanded head with gem made of green jasper with engraved stylized human figure in motion and flower in background (?)

Dimensions: bezel plate: wid. 0.74 cm.

To reiterate, the largest Roman-era necropolises in Split were ascertained in the city's north-west, at the Lora and Poljud sections Roman-era necropolis.¹¹⁴ Nenad Cambj described the features of the necropolis in Lora with mainly incineration burials in urns, in approximately forty urns, two walled graves for inhumation, with non-systematic burials, which is indicated by the lack of grave plots, sepulchral architecture, gravestones and inscriptions.¹¹⁵ Only the inscription of Gaius Orchivius Amemptus, built into the southern wall of the monastery church in Poljud, near Lora, is held as a possible indicator of sepulchral architecture at the grave plots 113 Nađeno s materijalom iz Lore, zarolano u papir na kojem istim rukopisom kao i na ostaloj ambalaži piše: prsten s gemom - fragment. Nije naveden u Popisu nalaza.

parceli u Lori, odnosno Poljudu.¹¹⁶ Cambj nekropolu u Lori datira u razdoblje od 2. pol. 1. st. do ranog 3. st. po. Kr.¹¹⁷ oslanjajući se na činjenicu da je riječ uglavnom o paljevinskim grobovima s priložima.

Nikolanci skupni nalaz urna i grobnih priloga uništenog osuarija na Poljudu 1953. datira u kraj 1. st. i početak 2. st. po. Kr.¹¹⁸

Arheološki nalazi, grobni prilozi katalogizirani u ovom radu svjedoče, i kvalitetom, o organiziranom rimskom životu na splitskom poluotoku u razdoblju od 2. pol. 1. stoljeća do 3., možda 4. st. po. Kr.¹¹⁹ in Lora and Poljud.¹¹⁶ Nenad Cambj dated the necropolis in Lora to the latter half of the first century to the third century AD¹¹⁷ based on the fact that these are general incineration graves with goods.

Nikolanci dated the group find of urns and grave goods of the devastated ossuary in Poljud in 1953 to the end of the first and early second century AD.¹¹⁸

The archaeological finds - grave goods- catalogued in this work, and their general quality bear witness to organized Roman life on the Split peninsula from the latter half of the first to the third centuries, and possibly also the fourth century AD.¹¹⁹

Grobovi 22 i 23 pripadaju nešto mlađoj fazi nekropole; grob 22 je skeletni, a boca nađena u grobu 23 pripada tipu što se nije proizvodio prije kraja 3. st. po. Kr.
