

FOCUS AND SCOPE

Senjski zbornik – The Anthology of Senj (ISSN / E-ISSN: 0582-673X / 1849-0999) is a peer-reviewed scientific and professional open-access journal dedicated to the promotion and dissemination of scholarly research across various scientific fields. The journal primarily concentrates on the humanities, with a specific emphasis on disciplines related to the history, culture, and heritage of the Senj region, as well as the entirety of Croatia. It aims to contribute to the advancement of knowledge in both national and international academic contexts by publishing original research articles, reviews, and scholarly papers. The journal's primary areas of interest include, but are not limited to anthropology, archaeology, art history, cultural studies, ethnology, geography, history, linguistics, and literature.

Senjski zbornik encourages interdisciplinary approaches to research, welcoming contributions that bridge multiple scientific fields, while also highlighting the significance of local heritage within global scholarly discussions. The journal serves as a valuable resource for scientists, researchers, and students interested in these fields. However, it also appeals to a broader international audience, particularly in terms of cultural significance, historical connections, archaeological importance, research opportunities, and academic collaboration.

Other relevant topics are also welcome, especially those that align with the scope of the journal, as determined by the expert assessment of its Editorial Board.
