AIMS & SCOPE

Naše more, International Journal of Maritime Science & Technology is a scientific journal published in three issues, and occasionally one special issue per year. The main scientific fields are: technical, biotechnical, and natural sciences related to the sea, the shore and the underwater environment. Topics are discussed on a scientific, professional and popular level and include navigation, ship technologies and marine engineering, maritime industry, transport, shipping, maritime law, oceanology, aquaculture, environmental protection and marine biology, i.e. maritime and seafaring topics in the broadest sense. In addition, the journal covers the topics concerning nautical tourism, as well as the education of seafarers.

Naše more, International Journal of Maritime Science & Technology is considered an internationally recognized double blind peer-reviewed journal. The focus is on the rapid publication of high-quality open-access articles.