Submission Guidelines

Croatian Journal of Education (CJE) is an international peer-reviewed academic journal intended for scientists from all fields of education and related sciences. CJE accepts for publication only scientific research papers which are original primary publications, i.e. papers which have not been previously published in any journal (previous publication in Conference Proceedings has to be specified). Thus, having been accepted by reviewers, the papers published in the journal contribute to the scientific community.

Croatian Journal of Education publishes research and professional papers which directly or indirectly reflect the topics related to academic theoretical and applied disciplines both in Croatia and abroad. The editorial board aims for CJE to be a place where scientists from different disciplines, but with studies that are closely related to education, will be able to publish the results of their scientific research as well as professional and theoretical studies.

methodology is preliminary reviewed, and after that they are sent to reviewers. Following the review procedure the papers are returned to the authors with reviewers’ suggestions for the improvement, or are rejected. The editorial board members read the revised paper and, provided adequate improvements have been made, it is selected for publication according to its categorization.

1. Papers have to be previously unpublished and they cannot be under consideration for publication in other journals; however, if the paper has been submitted somewhere else, the editorial board of Croatian Journal of Education should be notified.

2. The submission file should be in Open Office or Microsoft Word document file format.

4. The text of the paper should be edited in accordance with the Submission Guidelines.

The decision regarding publication will be made by the editorial board after considering the reviewers’ recommendations. The editorial board is under no obligation to provide justification of its decision regardless of whether the paper is accepted or rejected.

Languages accepted for the categorized papers are English with Croatian translation of the text (without illustrations). Authors are obliged to submit the paper in both languages and they take full responsibility for the quality of the translated text. Authors who do not submit their paper in both languages will be offered a translation for a fee according to the market price of 150 kunas (20€) per standard page. The fee will be paid after the paper has been accepted and before its publication. Standard page size is 1800 characters with spaces. Reviewers

Prior to publication, every paper is peer-reviewed. Each submitted paper is reviewed by a minimum of two independent reviewers who are all prominent scientists in their field of study and they independently evaluate submitted papers. Reviewers generally do not receive a fee, but the journal keeps a record of successful review procedures for each reviewer individually. At any given time, the reviewers may obtain the statistical data about the completed reviews for the purpose of their scientific advancement.

Paper Categorization

Papers are categorized as research papers, professional papers and other. Research papers can be divided into the following categories: original research paper, preliminary communication and review paper. As previously indicated, the author can suggest the category of his/her paper, but the final decision will be made by the editorial board following the reviewers’ recommendations.

Original research paper includes original theoretical or practical research results.

Preliminary communication includes one or more new scientific facts, but it does not encompass the topic and the details thoroughly enough to enable evaluation as does original research paper. Preliminary communication can present information on the results of experimental research or an ongoing scientific research if prompt publishing of results is required.

Review paper contains a comprehensive overview of the current situation and development trends of a particular field of study, methodology, or practical application accompanied by a critical comment or evaluation and author’s conclusion. The references quoted have to be complete so as to enable a good overview of the presented field of study.

Professional paper does not necessarily contain original scientific research but offers comments on the practical application of known scientific results and theories.

All other contributions (new editions, announcements, reviews, news, interviews, etc.) that cannot be assigned to the above-named categories will not be categorized.

Papers are generally published according to their categorization and in alphabetical order within the same section of the journal.

The journal is published four times a year in electronic form and with a circulation of 150 copies in printed form. The editorial board may agree to publish special issues in addition to the regular publications.
