

Disputatio philosophica

International Journal on Philosophy and Religion

INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

Disputatio philosophica is an international scientific journal at The Faculty of Philosophy and Religious Studies, University of Zagreb, which annually publishes articles in philosophy, religious studies and theology in English, German, Italian, Spanish and French language.

Submission requirements:

Authors must affirm that their submission:

- has not been published elsewhere, either in whole or in part, in any language (Prior presentation of a work at a conference is acceptable. Period publication in conference proceedings may be acceptable, depending on the format and distribution of the proceedings. Please discuss prior publication in conference proceedings with the editor.);
- is not under review by another publication
- will not be submitted for review elsewhere while under review at Disputatio philosophica
- is not based on data reported in any other prior or pending publication, unless the author provides the editor with supporting documentation to demonstrate the unique contribution of the submission; and
- has no conflict of interest pertinent to the subject of the article.

Works previously submitted and rejected are not acceptable unless the rejection letter specifically indicated that the editorial team would consider another improved version of manuscript on the same topic from the author.

Versions of the article:

- Preprint – Articles may not be posted online during the review process. Disputatio philosophica tries to ensure a fair and unbiased peer review process, so it is important that the manuscript is not available online, especially accompanied by the author's personal information.

- Postprint – Disputatio philosophica currently does not allow authors to publish postprints of their work.
- Version of Record – Authors may deposit the publisher’s version to their websites, their institutional repository or any other repository of their choice. It is also important that the deposited version is the actual version of record in PDF format that contains bibliographical information about the article and the journal.

Submission fee:

Disputatio philosophica does not does not charge any fee for submission or for the peer review and publishing process.
