

GUIDELINES FOR AUTHORS

Description of the journal

Pannoniana is a scientific publication published by the Faculty of Education in Osijek. It is published annually and publishes papers which contribute to findings in humanities, but also interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary papers. Papers should be aimed at or somehow be linked with the former Pannonia space and should encourage a dialogue between experts in humanities. Papers can be based on qualitative and quantitative research and can be aimed at different levels of research (individual studies, small and large samples). Only unpublished papers can be submitted.

Types of papers

The journal publishes reviewed papers, research reports, scholar debates and reviews. Individual issues can be dedicated to more specific topics. Every article and contribution, except book reviews, will undergo a double-blind peer-review. Within the peer review process, papers published in the journal are categorized in one of the following categories: original scientific article, preliminary communication, review article and professional article.

Original scientific articles contain unpublished results of the original theoretical and practical research. Its authors must list all the inputs and information in such a manner that the accuracy of the provided data and the analysis carried out may be verified.

Preliminary communications contain the materials of the scientific data that need to be published urgently, or which contain only partial results of bigger research.

Review articles are critical and analytical overviews of a field of study.

Professional papers aim to provide information and introduce a field of study or problem area, while the author does not aspire to conduct a detailed scientific research of the subject matter.

Submission

Submissions should not be published earlier or be under consideration for publication elsewhere.

Submitted papers must be in English, and titles, abstracts, and keywords must be both in English and Croatian.

Papers should be in accordance with the Guidelines for references - Pannoniana.

Submissions are conducted electronically to the Journal OJS website:

<https://hrcak.srce.hr/ojs/index.php/pannoniana/about/submissions>

Copyright

Contributing authors automatically waive their copyright in favour of the journal. The journal reserves copyright of all papers published in it.

Ethical Principles

The ethics statements for the journal Pannoniana are based on the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) Best Practice Guidelines for Journal Editors. The Editorial Board is committed to following these internationally accepted principles. The adopted ethical principles are binding for the Editorial Board, reviewers and authors.

Editorial Board

The Editor-in-Chief makes the final decision whether a paper will be accepted and published. The criterion for publication is quality and scientific significance of papers regardless of race, gender, nationality, religious or political beliefs of the authors. The Editorial Board must not disclose any information on submissions, nor use them for other purposes.

Authors

All the authors of a single paper should have made significant intellectual contribution to the research, i.e. to writing the paper. Submission of a manuscript implies that its publication has been tacitly or explicitly approved by all co-authors, if any, as well as by the responsible authorities at the institution where the work has been carried out. The publisher will not be held legally responsible should there be any claims for compensation.

Submissions should not be published earlier or be under consideration for publication elsewhere.

Reviewers

Every submission undergoes a double-blind peer review process, in which identities of author(s) and reviewer(s) are not disclosed. Reviewers should decline a review request if they lack sufficient expertise, or if they are unable to complete the review within six weeks. Reviewers must inform the editor of any possible conflict of interest or irregularities connected to the paper under review. Any paper received for review must be treated as a confidential document.

General guidelines for authors

All manuscripts must contain the essential elements: Information about author (name, institution or address, e-mail), Title, Abstract, Keywords, Main part of the paper: Introduction, Review of previous research, Methodology, Results, Discussion, Conclusion, References, etc. Such article structure is recommended for scholar articles in the category of original scientific papers, preliminary communications and review papers. Each paper should contain an abstract of up to one standard page, and three to five keywords.

Papers must be formatted to allow printing on paper size 176 x 250 mm (B5 format). Times New Roman, size 12 should be used, and line spacing should be 1,5. Each table and graph needs to be named and numbered. The margins (left, right, top and bottom) should be 25 mm wide. The text should be aligned with both the right and left margins (justified). The paper should have minimum six standard and maximum twenty-six pages (exceptionally it can contain more pages). Book reviews can have less than six standard pages.

Format your citation and references according to Pannoniana's guidelines for references.

The Editorial Board reserves the right to make any necessary technical, language and similar changes to the papers. Every accepted paper is provided with additional proofreading and language editing, and translation of titles, abstracts, and keywords can also be provided if necessary.

Editorial Board

PANNONIANA – Journal of Humanities