

Guidelines for future submissions

West Croatian History Journal publishes original scientific papers, review papers, notices, and book reviews. All submitted articles will firstly be evaluated by the editorial board, and then sent for peer review. The authors guarantee that the submitted articles were not already published in another publication. The editorial board retains the right to modify the articles within the propositions of the Journal and the standards of the English language. Every article should have a short summary at the beginning of the text, a larger summary (of 1 - 1,5 cards) for translation and a few key words or terms.

By authorising the final version of the Article the Author grants the Journal the license to publish the Article. The Author guarantees that the Article to the Journal has not been previously published elsewhere. The Author warrants and represents that the Article does not infringe upon any copyright or other right(s).

The Author understands and fully endorses that the Article will be published in print and in its open access service (Hrčak) and approves the unlimited right of unpaid access to the full text of the Article.

After accepting the article for publication in the Journal, the Author retains the right to publish the same Article in another Journal only with the consent of the Editorial board (secondary publishing). The author ensures that the Journal is properly credited. The Author retains the right to post or deposit the Article in a digital archive or institutional repository. The author ensures that the Journal is properly credited.

If the Author discovers a significant mistake or inaccuracy in the published Article, he/she must inform the Journal Editor or Publisher, and cooperate in retracting or amending the Article.
