Communication Management Review

INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

Communication Management Review is an open access international academic journal which is published by the Edward Bernays University of Applied Sciences. Notable foreign and Croatian academics with a focus on communication management participate in the activities of this journal, which is issued twice annually and publishes peer reviewed academic and professional papers in the field of public relations, marketing, political science, communication science, management and related disciplines. The interdisciplinary character of the journal enables a holistic approach to communication management, which is, due to dynamic occurrences and processes, directly and indirectly linked to other disciplines and their research topics. An added value of the journal is its endeavour to connect science and practice, whose approaches are different, but whose cooperation is essential in order to understand the new trends and dynamic processes of the contemporary world. Our aim is to become an academic platform for innovative, attractive and inspiring studies and academic research. Authors are invited to submit their articles through the open journal system. Michelson and Stacks (2007, p. 3) contended “it has long been held by public relations practitioners that public relations media placements have a relative value advantage over advertising when the message is employed by both or similar” in a multiplier effect.
Indirect quotation/paraphrasing – no quotation marks. Page numbers are optional when paraphrasing, although it is useful to include them.
Example:
Wright and Hinson (2009) categorize social media tools to include the following: blogs, forums or message boards, micro-blogging sites, photo sharing sites, podcasts, RSS (really simple syndication), search engine marketing/results, social bookmarking, social networking sites, video sharing sites, and Wikis.

Citations from a secondary source

Example:
As Hall (1977) asserts, “culture also defines boundaries of different groups” (as cited in Samovar, Porter, 1997, p. 14).

Please ensure that every reference cited in the text is also present in the reference list (and vice versa).
